Foreword

In future years when these days at Normal herein portrayed will have become dim in your memory, it is our hope that this, the 1929 Index, will bring you youth through the reminiscences of your undergraduate days.

Dedication

To those Students who make this great Illinois State Normal University a throbbing, living personality of all the aspirations and ideals of youth, this twenty-ninth volume—The Index of 1929—is loyally dedicated.

In Memoriam

Long shall we cherish the memory of our beloved dean, Orson L. Manchester, whom we lost during Commencement week a year ago. We shall ever be grateful for the pleasure, the profit, and the privilege of our contact with his rich and rare personality. As a teacher he had few peers; his substantial accuracy and thoroughness, his illuminating precision and lucidity, his inspiring fervor, his comforting good humor made him a superior instructor. As a speaker and presiding officer he commanded our spontaneous and respectful attention. As dean we found him alert and watchful, yet open-minded and unsuspicious; fair, but never gullible; firm, yet kind; ever willing to be helpful, but not to be imposed upon; judicious, yet expeditious. His keen discernment, his sanity of judgment, his intellectual honesty, his scorn for sham and cant and hypocrisy, his hatred of injustice, his genuine sympathy, his unfailing courage, his sterling integrity and downright rectitude of character endeared him to all who knew him well. Long shall we remember him for all that he means to us.

The Professor

R. H. VAUGHAN

With almost superhuman ingenuity he guided our advance upon the subject in hand, this Little Grey Professor of ours. Shifting, changing to fit our peculiar needs, he steered our ship, avoiding a rock here, making safe harbor there to clinch a thought, leading furiously when we followed, driving firmly when we lagged or shirked our tasks. Ever advancing, he tirelessly blazed our way to knowledge. Like the lightning flashed his intellect; clear and cool as a sparkling spring came his thoughts. How unlike the common run of man,—so reserved, yet so quick, so sensitive, so uncannily unerring in his decisions that it must be impossible for one such as I to know him as a friend.

And so our Professor continued to be a being set apart on a high pedestal beyond an unsurmountable barrier. But one day while seeking special aid from him I came to really know him. My hobbies were his hobbies. It was as if I had found a new being. When I poured out my joys and my sorrows he told me of his own. His methods of reasoning, his pleasures, his desires; his goals were as mine, he followed the same trails through heights and depressions. The high barrier melted and we were on common ground. As the traveler, weary of his way comes to a break in the hills to view the ocean spread before his gaze, so came I to a break in the hills which gave me a view of a beautiful life. I had found a wonderful human being and a friend.

Varsity Club

The Varsity Club has passed through another successful year of club activities under the leadership of its sponsor, Mr. R. H. Linkins.

The club began the school year by holding an informal gathering of all the men in school together with the faculty men during the second week of the Fall Term. The president extended welcome to all the new men in school, telling them of the ideals set down by the club and enumerating the events on the campus which are sponsored by the Varsity Club during the year. Talks were given by Varsity club members then on the campus,—Harris Dean, Maurice Graff and Howard White. Both of the athletic coaches, Mr. Horton and Mr. Cogdal, talked. They told about the present campaigns they had laid out in their respective sports. Dean H. H. Schroeder gave the main address of the evening, speaking on sportsmanship. The remainder of the evening was spent in learning school songs and yells. Refreshments were served during the course of the evening's entertainment.

The Varsity Club again sponsored the banquet for all of the men who were back for Homecoming. This function was well attended. Mr. Claude Griffiths, an alumnus of the school and former president of the Varsity Club, gave the special address of the evening.

The Varsity Club gave to the football squad a banquet at the Palace Cafeteria in Bloomington at the close of the football season. The Reverend Father Farrell, director of athletics at Trinity High School, gave the principal address. During the evening letters and sweaters were presented to those members of the squad who had earned them.

The members of the club were again hosts at a banquet in honor of the basketball men and the Pep Band at the close of the basketball season. The dinner was served in the dining room of the Manual Arts Building. Mr. Mark Peterman, athletic coach at the Canton High School, was the guest speaker of the evening. He told the men concerning his system of coaching which is so widely known and is used with great success. At the close of the year the Varsity Club will honor the baseball and the track men in a fitting manner.

The all-school Christmas Service held Sunday afternoon, December 16, in the Capen Auditorium was one of the best yet held on our campus. Rev. Charles Durden of Bloomington gave the sermon. The quartet from the Second Presbyterian Church in Bloomington, consisting of Mrs. Harry Admire, Mrs. Roy Ramseyer, Mr. DeWitt Miller and Mr. Harry Admire, with Mrs. Reeder at the organ, furnished the music for the service.

The Varsity Club will again sponsor the Stunt Show to be given on Friday evening, May 10, and on the following Sunday the Varsity Club is planning on the annual Mothers' Day program in the Capen Auditorium.

The success of the club this year is due to the hearty coöperation of its members and to the thought and diligence of those who were chosen for leadership. At the close of the Spring Term last year the club elected Byron Hallam for its president for the Fall Term. James Schroeder was elected president for the Winter Term. Edward Buehrig was chosen as president for the Spring Term.

Dances Sponsored by the Varsity Club

The Women's League and the Varsity Club jointly sponsored the first all-school party and dance of the year at Felmley Gymnasium on the second Saturday of the Fall Term. The dance was well attended and enjoyed by about two-thirds of the entire student body.

The Fall Term dance for the Varsity Club was held at Fell Hall on Saturday, February 9. Goforth's Orchestra furnished the music for this party. The function was a Valentine party, the appropriate decorations for the valentine season being used. The club will hold its Spring Term dinner dance in the Maplewood Country Club late in May.

Besides the regular term dances, the club gave a number of all-school parties during the year. They were all enjoyed by those who attended them. One of the outstanding all-school parties given by the club was the Radio Party. The music for this party was furnished entirely by radio. A good time was had by all who participated.

The work of the Women's League of I. S. N. U. for 1928-29 began in the summer with the appointment of "Big Sisters" for the "Little Sisters" who were coming to Normal for the first time. Such appointments were made for the purpose of helping the new girls through the first difficult weeks, as well as providing a means by which both Freshmen and upper class women might make acquaintances and discover friends.

The organization of the League, its purpose, and meaning were explained to the girls at the first Forum meeting in September at which meeting district presidents and secretaries were also elected. In October we sent five delegates to the State Convention of the Illinois State League of Women Voters, held at Moline, Illinois.

Our citizenship committee through the Vidette, and by means of speeches and posters, urged all who were eligible to cast their votes in the presidential election.

At Christmas time we united with the Y. W. C. A. in providing a Christmas tree and gifts for the children at the baby fold. During the week before vacation we gave the traditional program of Christmas carols in the auditorium and arranged to have them sung on the first floor of "Old Main."

In February the League coöperated with Varsity Club, Y. W. C. A., and the Religious and Philanthropic committee of the faculty in sponsoring the "World Education Institute" held on our campus.

During the fall term Women's League and Varsity Club gave their an-

Our Forum Program, arranged in coöperation with the Women's Faculty Club, was:

- October 24—"Women and Government," Senator Florence F. Bohrer.
 January 9—"Forming Public Opinion," Mrs. W. W. Ramsey.
 January 30—"The Greater Community," Miss Mary E. McDowell.
 February 13—"Minding Our Business," Miss Emily Taft.

As we are leaving we realize that there is still much to be accomplished. We feel that we have progressed a little toward the realization of the aims and ideals of the Women's League and sincerely hope that our work this year has helped the girls of I. S. N. U.:

To look life in the eyes
With calm undrooping gaze;
Always to mean

The Philadelphian Literary Society completed another banner year and is still "Going on." At the beginning of the year, the membership was low, but through careful and prolonged selection the society reached its quota of thirty-five members. The officers, society, and sponsor, Mr. Palmer, have coöperated in an effective way to make the year a great success.

History "repeated itself" when Phil again captured the Phil-Wright Contest which was staged the evening of January 25. The contest was close and when the votes had been tallied the Phils prevailed with a score of five to two. The personnel of the team was: Thomas Barton, Maurice Graff, debaters; Clarence Miller, orator; Ruth Sage, extempore; Marie Farr, reader; Rosebud Carl, vocalist; and Maurine Chapman, pianist.

Philadelphia was well represented in the big literary events of the year. Clarence Miller, in oratory, met with victory in the Edwards Medal contest. Margaret Hiett and Abel Hanson represented the society in the Livingston Cup Contest.

Philadelphia furnished the inter-collegiate debate teams with Jack Mooney, Abel Hanson, and Maurice Graff.

The orange and black maintained their supremacy on the hard wood this year. The boys won their game by a score of 27 to 13, and the girls won their tussle in a hair-raising exhibition which ended 26 to 27.

The greatest Phil banquet ever held, according to many present, was held at the Hotel Rogers, March 9th. The occasion brought encouraging letters from the absent alumni and many alumni attended. Those who spoke words of greeting included Rev. Claude Griffiths, Mr. D. Templeton, Prof. Cavins, Prof. Buzzard, and Mrs. Grace Seely Smith. Katharine Turner presented the banner to the society, and Mr. Palmer accepted it in behalf of the society. Clarence Miller, with a few words expressing the appreciation of the society for the efforts of their sponsor, presented Mr. Palmer with a signet ring as a token of that appreciation.

Later in the spring the society met at the home of their sponsor for a special program, and an evening of entertainment.

"We will fight, fight, fight, if we're winning,
We will fight, fight, fight, if we lose."

The Wrightonian Literary Society could scarcely fail to have a successful year with the splendid spirit that was manifested at the beginning of the Fall Term. Forrest Cockrell, the Fall Term president, proved to be an able leader. Plans were laid early for the contest. The contestants chosen for this event were: Forrest Cockrell, Edward Buehrig, debate; Kenneth Turner, vocal; Margaret Masters, piano; Walker Wyman, oration; Frank Vernor, declamation; and Harris Dean, extemporaneous speaking. The contest proved to be an interesting and close one, the judges' decisions being only two points apart when totaled. The loss of the contest seemed to have a stimulating effect upon the Wrights, for they entered immediately upon a program of activities unrivaled by any other organization on the campus.

These activities were carried on under the leadership of Kenneth Turner, the winter term president, and a staff of efficient officers and active committees. The most active committee was the committee on Interior Decorations, headed by Edward Buehrig. It was through the efforts of this committee that the University consented to redecorate the two literary society halls. Most of the Wrightonian furniture was repaired and refinished also. Further plans were made for the purchase of a new stage curtain.

These extensive plans were efficiently carried out by Marian Dean, the spring term president. A play, "Suppressed Desires," under the direction of Frank Vernor, was given during the spring term. This play was given to add to the curtain fund.

In addition to these activities, sixteen members of the society found time to organize the Wrightonian Choral Club, which gave the Christmas Candle Light Service in the two assemblies and assisted at the one-act play performances.

Two distinctly social events were also enjoyed. Miss Dorothy Garrett, the sponsor of the Wrightonian Society, entertained the members of the society at a dinner party given soon after the contest. An oyster stew party was also held later in the winter. Both of these parties were thoroughly enjoyed.

Several individual members distinguished themselves by carrying off some of the most highly prized honors of the year. Muriel Bennett won first place in the World Peace Essay Contest, Harris Dean won the Livingston cup in extempore speaking, Blanche Davis won first place in the Provincial Pi Kappa Delta women's oratorical contest; she also placed second in the Little Nineteen women's oratorical contest. Frank Vernor won first place in the declamatory contest held by the Normal Schools of Illinois. Wrightonia was represented on the debate squads by John Burlend, Walker Wyman, and Mildred Isenhower.

The Wrightonians were guided in their efforts by their friendly and loyal sponsor, Miss Dorothy Garrett. It is hoped that many a successful society year may yet sing

"Hail to the Purple
Hail to the Gold."

Kappa Delta Pi is a national honorary scholastic fraternity. It was founded at the University of Illinois in 1911. There are now fifty chapters in the Colleges and Universities of the United States. The purpose of Kappa Delta Pi, according to the Constitution, is: "To encourage in its members a higher degree of consecration to social service. To this end it shall maintain the highest personal ideals and shall foster fellowship, scholarship and achievement in educational work."

Mu Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was installed at I.S.N.U. on March 4, 1922. Since its installation there have been 249 members initiated. Since the close of the regular school year in June, 1928, there have been nineteen persons initiated.

The Annual Homecoming banquet was held at the First Christian Church in Normal with seventy-six members present. Dr. Felmley acted as toastmaster. Toasts were given by former presidents: Miss Mabel Crompton, Mrs. Stella Henderson, Mr. Parke H. Simer, Miss Bessie Hibarger, Mr. William Miller, Miss Elizabeth Scott, Mr. Leon Beecher, and the present president, Mr. Forrest Cockrell.

Each year Mu Chapter awards to the sophomore who has the highest scholastic average for his first two years' work at I.S.N.U., a gold medal. The medal was awarded to George J. Falgier this year.

Pi Kappa Delta is an honorary forensic fraternity for debating and public speaking work. In 1928 Homecoming banquet was held at the Campus Inn, October 19, with twenty-five members and alumni present.

We are very proud of Blanche Davis, our secretary, who won second place in women's oratory at the State Oratorical Contest this year.

The debate season, this year, was an unusually successful one. Our women's teams won the State Championship, and debating generally was of a very high grade. Because of the success which our debaters met we were able to take in fifteen very capable new members.

On April 4, 5, and 6, the Pi Kappa Delta Convention for the Illinois-Wisconsin Province was held here. This convention was sponsored by our chapter, with Wesleyan chapter coöperating. This is the first convention of the Illinois-Wisconsin province and we are very glad we were able to have it here. The two local chapters were brought much closer together than had been possible in the past, in their efforts to make the convention a success.

Besides helping to sponsor the convention, our chapter had twelve contestants entered—the largest number of any chapter represented.

Pi Omega Pi is a national honorary commercial fraternity. It was founded at the State Teachers' College at Kirksville, Missouri, by Mr. Selby about five years ago. The nearest chapters are at Kirksville, Missouri, Iowa State University, Iowa State Teachers' College, and Whitewater, Wisconsin. The purpose of this fraternity is to promote intelligent and enthusiastic interest in the world of commerce and to foster ideals of service in the teaching profession.

Theta chapter was established at the Illinois State Normal University on June 3, 1928. The following people have been elected to membership since being established: Arthur Williams, H. Irene Johnson, Esther R. Scott, Irene Kinsella, Harry F. Admire, Rhoda Hornish, Ethel Gerber, Laura Hoefer, Pauline Hurt, Mary Ferro, Alice Leng, Edna Hogle, Elizabeth Lewis, Mildred Bushell, Ruth Smallwood, Naomi Lowe, Ruth Voorhees, Orval Yarger, Ralph Boyd, Harrit Bolinger, Dorothea N. ## Gamma Theta Upsilon

Alpha Chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon was founded at Illinois State Normal University in May, 1928.

Gamma Theta Upsilon is a professional fraternity in the field of Geography. It was organized to promote interest in geographical activities not secured in regular class-room work; to create a loan fund for graduate study in Geography; and to place trained geographers in teaching positions.

Qualifications for membership are completion of four majors of geography with an average of 80, and the declared intention of using geography as a major subject. Election to membership is held each term. Meetings are held monthly. The charter membership numbers 80, including Dr. D. C. Ridgeley and Mr. W. W. McKnight, the two honorary members.

Gamma Theta Upsilon is the first professional geography fraternity to be founded and is planned to become national in activity.

Active members of the Alpha Chapter are: Theodore Harlan, Georgina Beazly, Mary Robinson, Roy Golden, Owen Marsh, Maud Gaul, Catherine Winslow, Howard White, Frank Sabine, Mildred Constantine, Stella Marshall, William Schlosser, Nathan Mohar, George Means, Agnes Searle, Emily Baker, Vergil Petty, Cyril Miner, Roy Litwiller, Miss Hibarger, Mr. W. Theta Alpha Phi is the only national honorary dramatic fraternity on the campus. The Delta Chapter was installed in April, 1926, and has been active as an organization. The requirement for membership into Theta Alpha Phi is participation in two major dramatic productions—in acting and in some other field of dramatic work. The local chapter selects its personnel from those who have completed the requirements, largely on the basis of the worthiness of that individual petitioning for membership. This membership into Theta Alpha Phi is the highest honor that the college actor can attain.

Active members: Clair Kokensparger, Clarence Odell, Elmer Graber, Eugene Hill, Hulda Greenberg, Frank Weller, James Schroeder, Ralph Weber, Vivian Seeley, Walker Wyman, William Schlosser, Marian Dean, Jane Money.

Honorary members: Mr. Fred Sorrenson, Miss Annette Cooper, Mr. Ralph Linkins, Miss Dorothy Hinman, Mr. George Palmer.

Alumni members: Mr. R. G. Buzzard, Miss Veda Bolt.

President . . . . .	BEATRICE MARTIN
Vice-President . . . . .	WILLIAM SCHLOSSER
Secretary . . . . .	GEORGINA BEAZLY
Sponsor . . . . .	MISS HELEN BRYANT

Since 1913 this organization, having for its purpose the furthering of a larger and better program of dramatics for I.S.N.U., has been in active existence on our campus.

In an endeavor to fulfill this purpose, we have this year produced, in coöperation with Theta Alpha Phi, our national dramatic fraternity, four major productions. That we may be more proficient in dramatics, four one-act plays, directed by members of the organization, have been prepared and presented within the society, in General Exercises, and at various clubs of the city. In addition to this, a play has been both written and produced by Walker Wyman and V. C. Kokensparger, members of the club.

Membership in this society depends entirely upon the possession of talent, if the person takes part in the play itself, or upon the skillful execution of his duties if he has a place on the executive staff. For this reason, members taken in during the year are members who will continue to promote the work of the society.

The tireless enthusiasm and interest of Miss Helen Bryant, our sponsor, has been, and will be a determining factor in the success of the society.

The Apportionment Board

One of the duties of the faculty committee on student activities is the apportionment of student fees. This work is in the hands of a sub-committee of the larger one, and this smaller group is assisted in its work by students elected to the position by the student body. This organization is known as the Apportionment Board and is headed by President Felmley, chairman, Dr. Buzzard and Mr. Adams of the faculty, Maurice Graff and Byron Hallam of the University group, and Miss Mildred FitzHenry of the University High School.

The apportionments of student fee money are made to various campus organizations carrying on all school activities and including the Lecture Board, the Vidette, the Index, and the Oratorical organizations, as well as lesser amounts to other groups. The amounts apportioned are based on anticipated revenues from student fees. Because of gradually diminishing enrollment of students the Board has been faced with the problem of fitting apportionments to requests, the latter always exceeding the amounts that can be distributed. The Board at its fall meetings made apportionments totalling nearly $12,000.

Lecture Board

The Lecture Board has made an attempt to have a well-balanced program which would include a variety of good entertainment for the student body. It is their hope that they have pleased the student body.

For the past year the board has consisted of the following members:

From the faculty:

Mr. R. H. Linkins, Secretary

Mr. Harry F. Admire

Miss Edith I. Atkins

From the student body:

Nathan Mohar, President

Burton Carlock, First Vice-President

Francelia Gallander, Second Vice-President

Dorothea Frutiger, Treasurer

Thomas Barger, Jr., H. S. Representative

The Oratorical Board

The Oratorical Board is composed of Marian Dean, Walker Wyman, W. A. L. Beyer, Verna Grubbs, and Fred S. Sorrenson. It directs the intercollegiate speech activities for the school.

This year DeKalb sought membership in the State Oratorical Association of Teachers' Colleges and was admitted.

The Board aided in carrying out the first intercollegiate debating schedule for women which has been arranged in Illinois, and as is announced elsewhere in this book, the women's debating squad of I.S.N.U. won the championship.

The Oratorical Board also stood back of Pi Kappa Delta in sponsoring the first biennial provincial convention held by Wisconsin and Illinois. The convention was held at Normal and Wesleyan on April 4, 5, and 6. In connection with it were conducted intercollegiate oratorical contests and debate tournaments.

Because of the gradually increasing activities of the Oratorical Board, its constitution was rewritten during the year to take care of its steadily growing work.

The Athletic Board of Control

During the past year the board has been composed of Mr. Horton, Mr. Cogdal, Mr. Beyer, Mr. Hudelson, and Mr. Fogler, faculty members, and Carrol Cade, Charles Creager, Ralph Bates, and Maurice Graff, student members.

The purpose of the board has been to exercise control over the various athletic functions of the school. It governs the making of schedules, the spending of athletic funds, the regulation of local athletic conditions, and the awarding of letters, sweaters, and blankets to members of I.S.N.U. teams.

The principal question considered by the board this year was the question of athletic finance. Several attempts were made to separate the athletic fees from the general student fees, but they were unsuccessful. The proposal to eliminate the Spring sports was defeated only after the students of the school voluntarily contributed toward a fund for their maintenance.

If intercollegiate athletics are to endure at I.S.N.U. it will be necessary within a short time to secure a more adequate system of finance. So long as the student body of the school approves of intercollegiate athletics, it behooves it to supply them with sufficient funds. The athletic Board stands squarely behind the proposal for a special compulsory Athletic fee.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y.W.C.A. is an organization which exists for the purpose of promoting Christian fellowship among the women of the University. On the second Wednesday of the fall term open-house was observed at the Y.W.C.A. rooms on North street. The following Saturday the annual walk-out breakfast was held. All the girls of the school were invited to participate in the hike.

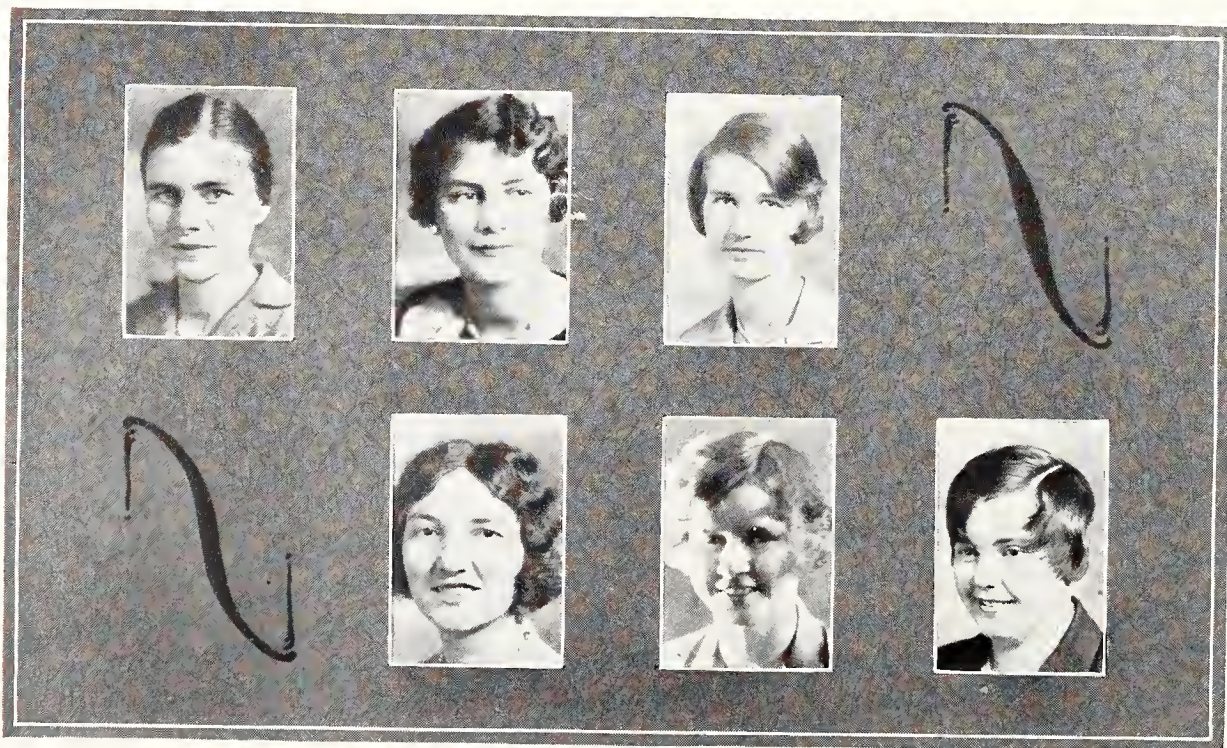

After the hike, the girls came back to the kitchen in the Metcalf building where they were served eggs, buns, coffee, and fruit.

During Homecoming the Y.W.C.A. held a sunrise service at the Normal Methodist Church. The meeting was devotional in character, and its subject was "Seeing the Beautiful." It presented to girls who were soon to become members, the spiritual side of the "Y" triangle.

In November the formal recognition service was held at Fell Hall. It was a beautiful candle-light service. The new members lighted their candles at the central candle flame, and thus became a part of that great organization whose influence is felt all over the world.

The Christmas season brought another opportunity for the Y.W.C.A. to put its Christian ideals into practice. Each girl brought a toy for the Christmas tree, which stood in Miss Barton's office. The gifts and tree were taken to the babyfold. Y.W.C.A. members sang carols in Room 12 one day at noon. On the evening of December 19, when Christmas vacation began, some of the girls sang carols at the program which the Bloomington Americanization school gave for its students.

All through the year the Y.W.C.A. has practiced and applied Christianity in connection with all of its activities.

The purpose of the organization is four-fold:

- (1) To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.
- (2) To lead them into membership and service in the Christian Church.
- (3) To promote their growth in Christian faith and character, especially through the study of the Bible.

(4) To influence them to devote themselves in united efforts with all Christians to making the will of Christ effective in human society and to extending the kingdom of God throughout the world.

Any woman of the school may become a member of the association provided she makes the following declaration: "I am in sympathy with the purpose of the Association as stated above, and it is my purpose to live as a true follower of the Lord Jesus Christ."

The Y Cabinet is composed of the following members:

The Commerce Club

The Commerce Club is one of the largest organizations on the campus. The organization has proved to be very successful this year because every member has done his part.

The first meeting was held to reelect the officers and was later followed by the initiation of the new members. Each old member became acquainted with the new members. The meetings have all been well attended, and each member has gained much knowledge from speeches given by prominent business men.

Mr. Williams has proved to be a highly appreciated sponsor of the Commerce Club and his efforts to further the work of the Commerce Department has made him a friend and counsellor of each member of the organization.

Commerce Club members are:

Paul Huber, Katharine Reeves, Elsie Wilson, Harriet Parks, Merne Compton, Helen Johnson, Nellie Britch, Beatrice Wright, Eileen Weber,

The Kindergarten Club consists of the faculty and students of the Kindergarten Department. The Club has two objectives: to further the spirit of friendship among the students who work together daily with common interests, and to extend and deepen the interest of students of the department in phases of childhood education.

A number of social events throughout the year beginning with a progressive initiation party in September, and ending with a May picnic, have successfully accomplished the first purpose.

For the realization of the second aim meetings were held monthly for the discussion of topics related to the education of young children. The program for this year included the following:

The Women's Debate Club spent a profitable year discussing questions of national, state, and local importance as well as debating the advisability of various reforms on the I.S.N.U. campus. In the fall rules were drawn up by a joint committee consisting of members of both the men's and women's organizations which were to govern the proceedings of the joint debates between the two societies.

The Men's debate club succeeded in winning, by a 3-0 decision, the debate given before the general assembly early in March on the question: "Resolved, that the character and extent of modern advertising is to be deplored." The contestants for the women, debating on the negative side of the question, were Rosie Rasmussen and Cleda Nitzel.

The organization held a valentine party at the home of Dorothy Ellis. Other social events kept the members active during the spring term. Miss Esther Vinson, sponsor, helped greatly in keeping the society "up and coming" throughout the year.

President . . . . .	FRANK KIPFER	GEORGE FALGIER	GEORGE FALGIER

The Men's Debate Club had a very successful year. In the fall term the meetings were used for debating the question: "Resolved, that the government should retain ownership of and develop the principal sources of hydro-electric power in the United States."

In the winter term the Women's Debate Club challenged the Men's Debate Club to debate the following question: "Resolved, that the extent and character of modern advertising are to be deplored." The challenge was accepted and the question was debated on March 7, 1929, before General Assembly. George Falgier and Abel Hanson represented the Men's Debate Club, upholding the affirmative side of the question. The men maintained their record by defeating the women with a unanimous decision of the judges. The club reorganized during the winter term and drew up a new constitution.

In the spring term the men submitted a question to the Women's Debate Club and hope to uphold their record by defeating the women as they have always done in the past. The annual banquet was also held during the spring term.

Much of the success of the club was due to the leadership of the two presidents and the sponsor, Mr. Kinneman. Frank Kipfer was elected president for the fall term. George Falgier was elected for the winter term and re-elected for the spring term.

The Lowell Mason Club

President . . . . .	MAXINE RAUCH
Vice-President . . . . .	ERNEST CHIEVER
Secretary . . . . .	EVELYN BARRETT
Treasurer . . . . .	IRENE DUNBAR
Corresponding Secretary . . . . .	MILDRED BORGSTEDE

The Lowell Mason Club has been in existence for seven years. Meetings are held every two weeks on Wednesday evening. At that time short programs are given by members of the club and problems and topics of musical interest are discussed.

The club has participated in several social activities during the year. At the first of the year a get-acquainted was held at the home of Mr. Westhoff. Later an initiation in the form of a lawn party was held at Maurine Chapman's home. Besides the fun and frolic of this initiation a formal ceremony, which was beautiful and impressive, was held in the Music Room.

At Homecoming we took part in the Hobo Parade. At 12:30 o'clock a luncheon was held at the Presbyterian church, to which were welcomed many of our alumni.

Christmas was celebrated with a party at Maurine Chapman's. A Colonial Costume Ball was sponsored by the Club on Washington's Birthday. Also the usual custom of giving a program in General Assembly was followed. Aside from this two new things were accomplished by the Club. One was the contributing for the "Music Box", a column in the Vidette devoted to musical happenings. This contained a biography of the composer of the organ selections played in General Assembly during the week.

Another was the sending of a news letter several times during the year to our Alumni members.

Much credit is due to the interest and earnest direction of Miss Boicourt for the success and pleasures during the year.

Choral Club

The Choral Club began its work this year under the direction of Professor Westhoff, with Rosebud Carl, president, and Evelyn Koehler, accompanist, and gave the usual concert at the end of the fall term. Because of illness Professor Westhoff found it impossible to continue work with the club and Assistant Professor, Miss Blaine Boicourt, assumed the directorship at the beginning of the winter term.

The club had an enrollment of 100 at the first of the year but later the number was reduced to 75. On Mondays and Wednesdays the club met to rehearse songs for the three public concerts given during the year.

On the evening of March 21, in the Capen Auditorium, the Club opened the meeting of the Central Illinois Teachers' Association with the following program:

Holy Art Thou; Largo from Xerxes.....	Handel
Bring Back Old Scenes.....	Old Irish Song
Call the Yowes.....	Old Scotch Song
The De'il's Awa' . . . . .	Declamarter
Moonlight and Water . . . . .	Pinsuti
Song of the Marching Men.....	Hadley

The members of the Club found the work very interesting this year and believe that the participation in the concerts and the study of the material in preparation for them have made them more appreciative of all good music.

Girls' Glee Club

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Know ye all fellow-students of the Illinois State Normal University—past, present, and future—of the Girls' Glee Club activities this year.

The Glee Club, sponsored and directed by Miss Blaine Boicourt, has had a most successful year. It has been presented twice this year under the auspices of the Student Council in General Assembly; once for Christmas and once for Easter. The Varsity Club sponsored its appearance on their Mothers' day program. The Glee Club has sung twice at the Second Christian Church in Bloomington and twice for the Central Division of the Illinois State Teachers' Association which held its meeting this year at Normal. Since, the Glee Club has presented a cantata, "Pan on a Summer Day," written by Paul Bliss, which was very well received. The social triumph of the year was a meeting held at Miss Boicourt's home where she gave each member the memory of a lovely evening.

University Orchestra

At the beginning of school, the orchestra consisted of twenty-eight members. The first public appearance of the year was at the annual Homecoming Play. Later in the term a joint orchestra and choral club concert was given under the capable direction of Mr. Westhoff.

Due to the illness of Mr. Westhoff, Miss Butler led the orchestra during the winter term. It was under her efficient supervision that the orchestra prepared and gave the winter term concert.

This spring, Mr. Westhoff was able to be with the orchestra again. At his suggestion a different system of practice was tried whereby the orchestra met on Tuesday and Friday, eighth and ninth hours, instead of every Tuesday evening. Mr. Westhoff hopes to have a daily schedule for practice next year.

The orchestra closed the year's work by playing for the Senior Play, the Sacred Concert, and graduation exercises.

That the women of I.S.N.U. are thinking, interested citizens pushing beyond the bounds of textbooks, and the various activities of college life into the affairs of government—local, national, and international,—is evident, for the Citizenship Committee of the Women's League has seen fit and found reason to enlarge itself into an organization known as The Illinois State Normal University Student League of Women Voters.

The purpose of this citizenship organization is to further the activities of women, not only in college life, but in the broader sense of being citizens of the nation and of the world.

The Hieronymus Club has just completed one of its most successful years. Every meeting has been unusually profitable because we have lived up to our motto "Every member a worker," and the committees for each meeting have done their work very efficiently.

At our "Leadership" meeting three students from the University of Illinois told us what the National Grange is doing to improve the farm situation.

After a birthday dinner in his honor at Fell Hall, Dr. Hieronymus talked to us on "Beauty Spots of Illinois." The meeting at which Dr. Hieronymus speaks is always one of the outstanding meetings of the year.

The First Annual Corn Show was held through the coöperation of the Hieronymus and Hopkins Agricultural Clubs. Dr. J. R. Holbert's talk on "Cold-Resisting Corn" and a cow-calling contest were features of the evening program held as a part of this successful project.

One of "the" days in the history of our Club came when we secured a nationally known speaker on the farm problems of today. Mr. Lewis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, spoke to the students on "Prosperity's Cornerstone."

At our Valentine Party, we showed that we can play as well as we can work. At this party the members and their guests, the Hopkins Agricultural Club, went on a "Cupid's Tour of the World."

Early in March the Hieronymus Club play, "Lightnin'" was presented under the direction of Clarence Miller, one of our members, and its presentation was just another evidence that "success" comes when work is planned and plans are worked.

The Catholic students and faculty members of Illinois State Normal University are banded together in the Newman Club. This club has been in existence on our campus for six years. It was founded in December, 1923, for the purpose of bringing the Catholic young people in the university together in a social way and to strengthen the bonds of friendship among them. Similar organizations of students belonging to the same religious denomination are found in other teachers' colleges and in state universities throughout the country.

The members meet once a month for a business meeting followed by a program and a social hour. At least once each term the members are entertained at a party or dance. Some of the club activities this year have been a Sunday afternoon tea at the K. of C. Home, a dance in Holy Trinity Hall, and an Easter Breakfast.

More than one hundred were present at the homecoming reunion and breakfast held at Roland's Tea Room.

The members are grateful to Miss Kinsella, our sponsor, for her efforts on behalf of the club.

Sponsor . . . . .	MISS RAMBO

The Home Economics Club has increased its membership this year. Special efforts have been made to arouse the interest of the undergraduates.

The State Home Economics Meeting held at Macomb was attended by five members of the club and the sponsor. Reports of this meeting and of the National Home Economics Meeting, attended by the sponsor in June, made two very interesting club programs. Other programs have consisted of feature numbers from each of the four classes; a pageant by the dress design class of the fall term; a talk on European Home Life, by Miss Dorothy Hinman; a lecture by Miss Clara Brian, McLean County Home Bureau Agent; and a lecture on Modern Art, by Dudley Crafts Watson at the Unitarian Church in Bloomington.

The social events of the year began with a hamburger fry at Forest Park. Then Homecoming brought the annual Hobo Parade in which the club participated, and the club banquet. At Christmas time the club was entertained at a tea by the foods classes. A joyous time was held in February when the annual Valentine Party was given in the Manual Arts dining room.

The Manual Arts Club has been more active this year than ever before because of the large number of men enrolled in the department.

The second meeting of the club was held at the home of Mr. Dragoo. A talk on "Equipping a Shop" was given by Mr. Stoltz in which he invited the club to visit the new Normal High School shop. After the talk, a radio program was heard.

At its next meeting, the club visited the Normal High School shop where the members inspected the new machinery and equipment.

A unique program was presented by the club in both assemblies during the winter term. The radio entertainment was the first of its kind to have been broadcast from station MAC at Normal University. It was picked up for use at assembly time. The personnel of the orchestra was as follows: Saxophone, Robert Barclay; banjo, Ursul Meeker; violin, Merle Denning; trombone, Merle Koerner; drums, Ralph Bates. Floyd Stahl, who was at the microphone, discovered a future for himself. The members who took part in the play were Earl Stutzman, Earl Bryan, Chas. Boardman, Henry Nalbach, Harold Schen, and John Norton.

Waldo Frohardt opened the program giving two selections on a musical saw. Part of the program's success was due to Ralph Weber who was responsible for the hook-up.

The Manual Arts Club entered a team in the Intra-Mural Basketball League this year and made a good showing. It has also submitted a synopsis for the Annual Stunt Show.

Sponsor . . . . .	MARION C. ALLEN

The numerous and varied activities of the Art Club were prefaced by a "get acquainted" party for new students. This was soon followed by a meeting for organization and later by a weiner roast at Funk's Grove.

The first big project was undertaken at Homecoming when the club won second prize in the Hobo Parade with a stunt in which seven of the old masters, each with an outstanding painting, returned in dilapidated Fords. The annual Homecoming Luncheon, held at the Village Inn, was well attended.

Several weeks after, the annual Costume Dance, which proved to be a lively affair, was held at the Old Castle. Activities for the fall term were concluded with initiation of new members.

Just before the holidays, the club renewed its youth by a Children's Christmas Party given by Mr. and Mrs. Staples at their home. In February another party was held at their home in honor of Mr. Staples' birthday. A program of drawings made to music was presented before the General Assemblies during the month.

Members of the Art Club, many of whom are also members of the Bloomington Art Association, have throughout the year shown an active interest in the exhibits and programs of the association. One of the biggest events of the year was the securing of Henry Turner Bailey, Director of the Cleveland School of Art, to speak to the students and faculty of I. S. N. U.

Winter term activities were terminated with a week-end trip to Chicago to visit the Art Institute and other points of art interest. Plans are being made to revise the constitution and thus pave the way for a bigger and stronger Art Club next year.

Secretary . . . . .	WILLIS MAAS
Treasurer . . . . .	DOROTHEA CONCKLIN
Sponsor . . . . .	MISS EDITH I. ATKIN

The Euclidean Circle was organized December 14, 1927. It consists of the faculty and student members of the Mathematics Department. Regular program meetings of the organization are held on Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock on the third, seventh, and eleventh weeks of each term, and in addition a social meeting is planned for each term.

It is the purpose of the organization to offer to its members opportunities to study and discuss problems and topics in mathematics for which there is no time offered in the regular classes of the school. The opportunity is also given to keep abreast of the present movements and accomplishments in the field of mathematics and to consider topics beyond the scope of the present curriculum. Then, too, there are the benefits derived by social and professional contact with those interested in mathematics.

On October 20, 1928, active members and alumni of the Euclidean Circle gathered at the Campus Inn, 314 North Street, Normal, for the First Homecoming Breakfast. The occasion will remain a very pleasant memory. President and Mrs. Felmley were our guests.

Many of our regular meetings proved to be exceptionally interesting, as, for example, was the one on the fourth dimension. New members are elected at the beginning of each term.

We missed Prof. C. N. Mills very much, but are glad that he has had the opportunity to study for his Doctor's degree.

Hopkins Agriculture Club

The Hopkins Agriculture Club, one of the more active clubs on the campus, has had one of its most successful years. To begin the year, Frank Kipfer and his committee arranged and carried out plans which resulted in the biggest Hobo Parade since the club originated this event. This was followed by the corn show and judging contest which draws all the Smith-Hughes high school boys in Central Illinois. A silver loving cup was awarded the winner by the club. In January the club in connection with the Hieronymus Club inaugurated the First Annual Corn Show which was a marked success. Again in the spring all the Smith-Hughes high school boys gathered again for the Annual Live Stock Judging Contest which was followed by a banquet at which time silver loving cups were awarded to the winners.

However, the club did not attend only to such matters. As usual it had the Annual Old Time Barn Dance at the farm and its Annual Banquet at the last meeting of the club.

The continued success of the club is largely due to the efforts of Burton Carlock and Louis Jeckel. They piloted the club under the quiet support of our modest, but most capable and efficient sponsor, Clyde W. Hudelson, who is responsible for the fact that our Agricultural Department is rated the best among all the teachers colleges in the United States.

Secretary-Treasurer . . . . .	LOUISE FULTON
Sponsor . . . . .	MR. KINNEMAN

The Social Science Club is the newest club on the campus. It was founded during the winter term because of a felt need by the Social Science students for such an organization. Before the formation of the club the Social Science students had no organization which covered the work in which they were interested. The club has at the present time about twenty-five of the outstanding students of the school among its members.

The requirements for membership are very stringent. Students desiring to enter the organization must have eight courses in History, Economics, and Sociology. The grades in these subjects must average eighty-five. One of the reasons for these requirements is that it is the hope of the club to eventually become associated with the National Social Science Fraternity, Pi Gamma Mu.

The meetings of the club during the spring term were given over to reports from members who had interesting thesis topics. These reports were enthusiastically accepted by the club and will probably become a permanent part of the club's program. This club expects to become one of the outstanding organizations on the campus.

The Nature Study Club was organized fifteen years ago for the purpose of fostering an appreciation of the nature world, and of keeping its members in touch with the advanced ideas of the nature study movement.

During the year, the membership has been about forty-five. Many interesting and helpful programs have been given. These include: An illustrated talk on birds, by Miss Patterson; "Hail and Its Half-Brothers," by Helen Haughey; "Autumn Leaves," by Agnes Searle; "My Trip to British Columbia," by Miss McAvoy; "The Naches Pass Highway," by Virginia Carwell; a project program by Priscilla Groves, Opal Terry, Agnes Hanson, and Helen Peck; a story, "The Christmas Dryad," by Miss Patterson; "John Muir," by Dorothy Garrity; "Nuttal, Botanist," by Grace Young; a report of the meeting of the Nature Study Society of America, by Miss Patterson; a star study program; and "An Auto Trip Through the East," by Miss Crompton.

In addition to the regular programs, the club has engaged in a number of interesting activities. Prominent among these were the Homecoming Breakfast, a social hour after one of the regular meetings, and an early morning bird trip followed by an outdoor breakfast.

A new committee was appointed to start a permanent record of the names and addresses of all members from the time the club was organized.

The Illinois State Normal University is among the foremost schools in the United States in Nature Study work. We feel very fortunate in having for our sponsor, Miss Patterson, whose work is so widely known and approved.

The Latin Club, organized in 1920, aims (1) to promote interest in the study of Latin, and (2) to provide a common meeting ground for those interested in classical studies. Meetings are held on the third, seventh, and eleventh Tuesdays of each term.

The activities of the club this year began with a party given the club members by Miss Connell and Miss Carver at the latter's home. The various Latin classes have alternated in the presentation of programs at the regular meetings of the club. Programs concerning the Roman drama and Roman oratory, a Christmas program of the Roman Saturnalia, and slides and talks on the Wanderings of Aeneas were interesting and instructive. Hazel Sutherland, the club President, entertained the members at her home at the time of the January meeting.

The lively interest, the coöperation of the members of the club, and the assistance of the sponsor, the work of the Latin Club during this year has been very successful. The enrollment has doubled and the attendance has been almost perfect.

Mardi soir, six heures et demie. Quel est ce brouhaha qui se fait entendre jusque dans les corridors du pavillon scolaire? Est-ce quelque nouvelle tour de Babel? Non, car, à vrai dire, on n'entend qu'une langue. C'est que, dans la salle de couture, d'ordinaire si silencieuse, un marché français a lieu. Des vendeuses empressées font voir leurs marchandises à une clientèle bruyante munie d'argent français: Quelque faux-monnayeur doit faire de bonnes affaires à Normal! Tout s'achète ici, et à bon marché: chaussures, chapeaux, robes, meubles, fruits, gâteaux. Si les vendeuses tardent à rendre la monnaie, c'est qu'elles n'ont pas l'habitude de compter en centimes.

Le cercle français est vraiment un cercle ambulant, car un autre soir le trouve au gymnase groupé autour d'un vieux piano. On a ajouté au répertoire de l'année passée "Il était un bergère" et "Madelon." De temps en temps on joue aux cartes et aux jeux de vocabulaire.

Nous autres membres du cercle nous croyons au proverbe: "Chacun a deux pays, le sien et la France."

Este año, el tercero de su existencia, ha sido muy feliz para el Círculo Español. Nos hemos reunido una vez al mes y nos hemos divertido mucho.

El doce de octubre celebramos el descubrimiento de América por Cristóbal Colón con un programa conmemorativo a la fecha. En la reunión de noviembre los nuevos miembros fueron sometidos a todos los horrores de la Inquisición española.

Tuvimos, también, fiestas para celebrar la Navidad y el día de San Valentín. En las otras reuniones hemos cantado, jugado, y discutido asuntos concernientes al Círculo Español.

Este año decidimos tener prendedores, y como emblema, elegimos el escudo de España.

Acabamos el año con un paseo campestre, que resultó muy ameno.

Primary Teacher's Club

President . . . . .	KATHRYN E. HOLZGRAFE
Vice-President . . . . .	MARY ABBOTT
Secretary-Treasurer . . . . .	ETHEL CRANE
Faculty Sponsor . . . . .	MISS EYESTONE

The Primary Teachers' Club was created and organized during the fall term of 1924 with thirty-one charter members enrolled.

It has been the purpose and aim of the club to give the girls of curriculum B an opportunity for closer friendship through social activities and also to engage lecturers and discuss problems which will be helpful in giving constructive, interesting, and elevating ideas.

Members of the club meet the first Tuesday of each month at which time a business meeting is held, followed by interesting programs which touch upon the work and topics of interest to primary teachers.

The club plays an active part in the life of the campus. In the early fall a get acquainted party welcomes the new members. Each year the returning alumni members are entertained with a Homecoming Luncheon given for them by the active members of the club. The girls also take an active part each year in the Hobo Parade. The club's year is ended with a banquet given in the late spring.

The year's work has been successful largely because of the untiring efforts of our faculty sponsor, and the club members feel very fortunate in having Miss Eyestone for their leader.

Physical Education Club

Led by an ambitious president, Arva Rodeen, the Physical Education Club, composed entirely of girl physical education majors, started the year by initiating ten freshmen. This was done by means of a party at which the initiates appeared in a variety of costumes. As the secretary and treasurer of this club is selected from the freshman group, the election was held at this time, Harriett Mantle proving to be the desired officer.

Striving to eradicate the antagonistic feeling between the boy majors and the girls, the Physical Education Club gave a party in December at which the boys of curriculum GE were invited as guests. In January, to show their appreciation, the boys entertained the girls in like manner. Folk dancing and social dancing were the main features of the parties.

Besides discussions on every phase of athletics at the regular meetings, several play nights were held and Camp Johnson was frequented several week-ends in the spring by the girls.

Although the Physical Education Club feels this has been a profitable year, much of its success it contributes to its much loved and worth-while sponsor, Miss Barto. Every member is now looking forward to conquering great fields next year but they are carrying with them memories of the club as happy spots to help offset the year of hard work.

Homecoming

A special new feature of publicity helped to make Homecoming an event of interest to a greater number of people this year. Special editions of the Vidette were mailed to all old students and invitations sent to some two thousand. As a result of this increased publicity, the Homecomers were present at Old Normal on October 18, 19, 20, in large numbers. The enthusiasm was also increased by using the same method as last year, of offering prizes for the best decorated house. Many unique and clever decorations of red and white were seen throughout the city.

The Homecomers were greeted on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Capen Auditorium with an address of welcome by President Felmley. Immediately preceding the play, "Dear Brutus," sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi and the Jesters, at 8:30, a gala event was staged in the Felmley Gym with the beginning of the Homecoming Party. Both the play and the party were repeated on Saturday night to accommodate the large crowd.

On Saturday morning an old southern breakfast in the Manual Arts dining room brought many old friends together. From the breakfast the crowds moved out to the campus drive and the city streets attracted by the bright and happy hoboes who made up that annual feature, the Hobo Parade.

Homecoming

It was indeed a great feature of Homecoming. Because of increased interest and application, better and more original stunts were planned. The prizes were difficult to award because of the extreme competition. The Kindergarten group, with its band of hoboos and their mottoes, were honored with first prize. The Art Club with its burlesque of noted artists and their works were second honor winners.

The presidential campaign gave subject for many clever stunts, many of the individual stunts were depictions of Smith and Hoover in characteristic dress and action. Waldo Frohart and Walker Wyman were prize winners in the individual stunts.

Immediately after the Hobo Parade, the Varsity and Alumni hockey players had their annual struggle. The varsity team was very proud of a victory in their favor, the score being 1-0.

The next event of interest to the entire group of Homecomers was the football game with St. Viators. The crowd was very large and peppy. Despite the pep, fortune did not choose to lay the victory at Normal's feet. The game ended with St. Viators carrying off the big end of a 6-32 score.

After the play and party again Saturday night, the happy crowds separated to enter again upon their duties and await another cheery and successful Homecoming.

Homecoming

Interspersed with these outstanding events of Homecoming, were banquets, luncheons, dinners and programs by organizations on the campus.

On Friday night, Pi Kappa Delta banqueted at the Campus Inn, while the Wrightonian Literary Society had their Homecoming program. On Saturday morning there were four breakfasts besides the southern breakfast, the Hieronymus Club at the Allen Club, the Nature Study Club at the Manual Arts dining room, the Women's League at the Manual Arts dining room, and the Euclidean Circle at the Campus Inn. At 11 o'clock the Kappa Delta Pi fraternity held its initiation in room 37 and at 12 o'clock its banquet at the Christian Church. During the noon hour three other organizations had their luncheons—the Art Club at the Village Inn, the Kindergarten Club at the Methodist Church, the Lowell Mason Club at the Presbyterian Church, and the Primary Teachers' Club at the Normandy Luncheonette. At 5:30 the evening banquets began, with the dinner for Fell Hall Honor Residents. The Varsity men banqueted at the Thomas Metcalf playroom at 5:30 also, and the Women's Athletic Association at 6:00 at the Maplewood Country Club. Still another banquet was held at 6 o'clock, the Home Economics Club, in their dining room in the Manual Arts Building, while at 6:15 the Gamma Theta Upsilon banqueted at the Christian Church.

On Sunday morning the Y. W. C. A. sponsored a sunrise service for all women of the school and the Newman Club breakfasted at Roland's Tea Room. The Y. W. C. A. served tea at 303 North Street all Sunday afternoon for all women of the school.

For the convenience of Homecomers, stations for headquarters of Varsity Club, Philadelphian Alumni, Wroughtonian Alumni and General Alumni registrations were fixed in rooms 14, 9, and 11. The Index and student directory station was in the northwest corner of the main office.

The University Theatre is organized in order that dramatics of the entire school may be conducted in a business manner. Miss Verna Grubbs, director of I. S. N. U. dramatics, chose a group of people at the beginning of the school year to carry on the work of the University Theatre. The staff went to work making plans for bettering dramatics at I. S. N. U. as well as considering needs of the University Theatre. Their first accomplishment was the season ticket. This ticket included all the University plays of the year and was sold to the student at a reduced price. The staff is hoping that the season ticket will become a custom at I. S. N. U. and that the sale of season tickets will increase each year. The staff purchased a living room suite a little later in the year, for heretofore the University Theatre did not own any living room furniture.

Wrightonia

One of the most interesting events of the program is the debate. The question for debate this year was: "Resolved, that the United States should recognize the present government of Russia." The word "recognize" means that the U. S. accepts Russia into full membership in the family of nations, i.e., will exchange ambassadors and allow her to open consulates in our ports, we to enjoy the same privilege in Russia. "Present government" interpreted means the government as it exists at the present time under Stalin and the Central Committee.

Women's Inter-Collegiate Debating

This year has been a victorious one for the Women's Debating Squad. Sixteen women enrolled in the class for the winter term. Most of the term was spent on the study of the inter-collegiate question, "Resolved, That installment buying of consumption goods should be condemned."

They were fortunate in winning the "Little Nineteen" conference championship. This is the first year that a conference debate schedule has been arranged whereby the champion woman's team could be determined. Nine schools in the "Little Nineteen" entered women's teams in the league competition. The schools represented in the conference were Augustana, De Kalb, Eureka, Lincoln, Lombard, Normal, North Central, Shurtleff, and Wheaton. Members of the affirmative team were Dorothy Warlow, Hulda Greenberg, Georgina Beazly. Those on the negative team were Ella Iliff, Mrs. Ora Zehren. Margaret Conlee and Mildred Isenhower.

An affirmative team consisting of Marian Dean, Hulda Greenberg and Georgina Beazly debated the negative team of Eureka in a non-conference debate, but lost the decision.

In addition to the meets in the conference race, I. S. N. U.'s debate team also defeated the women's debate team of University of Missouri. Members of the team were Dorothy Ellis and Mrs. Ora Zehren. The question was, "Resolved, That in all trials in the U. S. a judge or board of judges should be substituted for the jury."

A great deal of credit for the success of the teams is due to the coaches, Dr. Fred S. Sorrenson and Prof. John A. Kinneman.

The season could not have been one of victories had it not been for the helpful work done by those members of the debating class who did not participate in any of the conference contests.

Men's Inter-Collegiate Debating

Bright prospects for a successful season in men's debate were in evidence from the very beginning in a squad of twenty men who worked daily throughout the winter term in order to develop debating teams which should be a credit to I. S. N. U. They were capably coached by Dr. Fred S. Sorrenson and by the associate coach, Prof. Richard G. Browne.

The question upon which the energies of these men were expended was, "Resolved, That the public should retain the ownership of and develop the principal sources of hydro-electric power in the United States." During the year the following men represented I. S. N. U. in one or more inter-collegiate debates: John Burlend, Robert Classon, George Falgier, John French, Maurice Graff, Byron Hallam, Abel Hanson, Jack Mooney, Henry G. Richert, Lewis Winegarner, and Walker Wyman. The veteran debater of the group was Walker Wyman, who had represented Normal in the previous two seasons. Jack Mooney also had served before. Among the colleges against which I. S. N. U. debaters were victorious were Augustana, Eureka, Lincoln, Macomb, North Central, St. Viators and Wheaton.

In the Pi Kappa Delta provincial convention held at Normal and Bloomington in early April, I. S. N. U. was represented by two teams, the one composed of John Burlend and Walker Wyman, the other of Able Hanson and Henry G. Richert. Their efforts placed I. S. N. U. second among the competing colleges.

At the present writing the men had won all debates leading to the Illinois inter-collegiate debate championship. In every respect the past season was one of the most successful this institution has ever enjoyed. Credit must be given to the library staff for their hearty cooperation in the securing of material, and also for the Men's Debating Club, sponsored by Prof. J. A. Kinneman, for making possible an early start in the study of the question.

Livingston Cup Contest

The general topic chosen for this year's contest in extempore speech was, "The Kellogg Peace Pact." The four sub-topics chosen to cover the main topic were:

1. The origin, nature, and purpose of the Kellogg Peace Pact.
2. The life and work of Frank B. Kellogg.
3. The ratification of the pact.
4. The significance of the Kellogg Peace Pact.

The topics were drawn twenty-four hours before the assembly period on Friday, March 8, the program resulting as follows:

1. The origin, nature, and purpose of the Kellogg Peace Pact, Abel Hanson.
2. The origin, nature, and purpose of the Kellogg Peace Pact, Margaret Hiatt.
3. The significance of the Kellogg Peace Pact, Harris Dean.

The decision of the judges and the Livingston Cup was awarded to Harris Dean, who represented Normal at the Inter-Normal contest with DeKalb and Lombard at DeKalb, winning second place at this contest.

Edwards Metal Contest

The twenty-sixth annual Edwards Medal Contest was held in the Capen Auditorium on Saturday night, February 23, 1929. The gold medals were won by V. C. Kokensparger, in Reading, and by Clarence Miller, in Oration.

The contestants in reading and their numbers were:

"The Abandoned Elopement," V. C. Kokensparger.

"The Abandoned Elopement," Mildred Borgstede.

"Billy Brag and the Big Lie," Frieda Grending.

The contestants in oratory and their orations were:

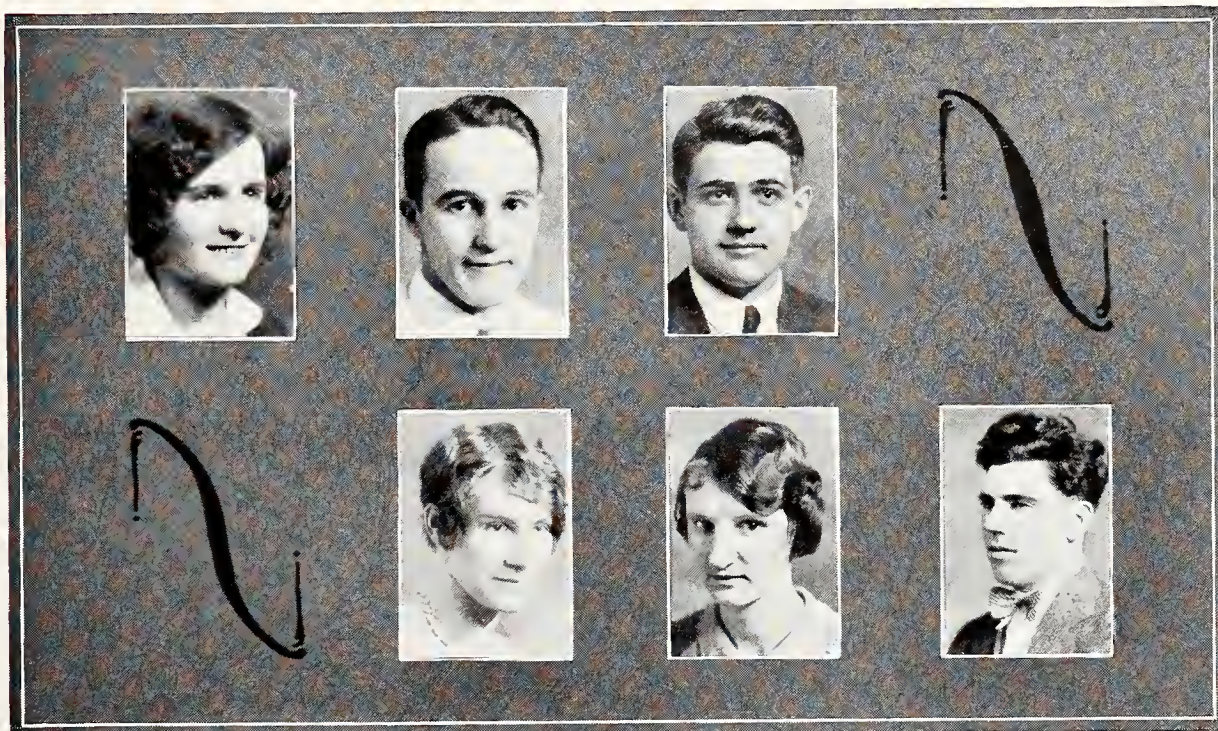

"Kings Among Men," Clarence Miller.

"The Impress of Materialism," Blanche Davis.

"The Gang—America's Organized Menace," Atwood Reynolds.

Blanche Davis and Clarence Miller represented I. S. N. U. at the Illinois State Oratorical Contest at the McKendree College of Lebanon. Miss Davis was awarded second place at this contest.

Frank Vernor represented I. S. N. U. at the Inter-Normal contest in reading at De Kalb and won first place.

Memories

Gladys Wood

It was a day in early autumn. The trees had arrayed themselves in their choicest of colors, russet brown, flaming scarlet and sparkling gold. Soft sunshine bathed the campus of "Old Normal" with its mellow light. A squirrel, with beady eyes and a merry, frisking tail, made use of the bright hours to store away a winter's supply of nuts. Footfalls on the walks were deadened by the leaves which covered them. Students, in their brisk hurry from one building to another, arms loaded with books, added to the color of the scene. Flocks of birds, winging their way southward, made black specks against the deep blue of the sky. The afternoon slowly wanes, and the setting sun casts a ruddy glow upon the peaceful view.

From the football field comes the echoing voices of the players, busily engaged in practice to defeat some opposing team. Soon even these sounds cease and in the fading twilight of the fall day, the campus lies silent, melancholy, brooding—bereft of all signs of life.

Winter! his icy breath has descended, his cold fingers have touched the earth, his hoary locks are shaken. Every bush and tree on the Normal campus is clothed in a cloak of ermine. Children slide in glee upon the icy walks, students pick their way with care, and snowballs have a queer way of being deposited on the back of one's neck. There is a thrill of excitement in the air. The holidays are not far distant, and home fires and old friends are beckoning. Freedom from care and books is at hand. The noonday sun melts the coat of ermine from the trees. The streets become once more walkable, much to the disgust of small urchins who dejectedly drag home unused sleds. Night brings a flurry of snow.

The balminess of an April day has awakened the campus to life. The velvety lawn, the budding trees, a robin's cheerful song, the fragrance of a recent shower, the cooing of a dove, all blend in one harmonious note to say that spring has returned. The steps of students lag, for nature is so much more enticing than the printed pages of a book. But spring days cannot always last, and summer with her golden train of hours approaches.

The quiet beauty of an August afternoon lingers upon a singularly peaceful scene. Long shadows stretch languidly across the lawn. Frolicking little breezes play in the leafy treetops. The gray old castle, its stone walls covered by clinging vines, stands in somber relief against the sky. One might imagine himself back in the days of chivalry as he gazes upon its ancient walls.

Standing on the steps of the main building, a Senior, whose career at Normal is soon to end, pauses a moment for reflection. His eyes linger lovingly upon the beauty of that campus which has encompassed the life of over two-thirds of a century. From the halls of that building on whose steps he stands, have emerged those who, inspired and uplifted by the training received within its confines, have striven to uphold its honor, carry forth its ideals, and transfer their knowledge into useful and efficient service. Pictures of days filled with sunshine and shadow, busy moments and quiet hours, gaiety mingled with earnest endeavor, paint themselves on the folds of memory. The school of imparted knowledge is soon to give place to the school of life. Life with its moments of success, life with its dull monotony, spreads before him, who fain would stay the hand of time. The softness of the summer twilight merges into night. Shining forth as a beacon light to those whose school days are still before them, the old school clock strikes the hour.

A morning of radiant sunshine marks the last milestone in the life of that student who has completed his course. As the degree, Bachelor of Education is conferred upon him, he firmly resolves that this is not the end, but the true beginning.

The Library

Maurice Graff

What an interesting place is the library! To a person not acquainted with the I. S. N. U. campus, a mention of such a subject probably connotes merely rows of dusty shelves bearing finger worn volumes, silent reading rooms, quiet corners, and industrious students who seek the knowledge of the ages. Such a person would indeed spend an interesting evening, should he visit the I. S. N. U. library during some intellectual (?) rush.

He would see something very different from his prematurely drawn mental picture. He would see girls—dozens of girls, both pretty and homely, both industrious and otherwise. He would see a lesser number of boys, both busy and—mostly otherwise; homely as mud fences—most, according to the whispered remark of a girl nearby. He would find the reading rooms, but he would not find them silent. He would find most of the books there—that is, those that had not been sneaked out by the privileged upper classmen.

Let us place him at one of the tables and let him see and hear. A group of shebafied-looking girls chatter incessantly on his left, vociferously chewing gum in between words. An awe-stricken hush of admiration descends over them as a sleek-haired shiek with a raccoon coat shuffles aimlessly up to the charging desk and surveys the feminine prospects for the evening. A group of boys in one corner restlessly scan the sport pages of a newspaper, casting innumerable glances toward the faces—and silken-covered knees of the pretty maidens who trip hither and thither in their search for knowledge—and dates. A shy little damsel sits lonesomely at the end of a long reading table, and as the clock strikes eight, she looks furtively about the room. Meanwhile a studious-looking young fellow (evidently a freshman) has parked nearby and has taken an intense interest in a newspaper. A vacated chair beside the blushing young co-ed is promptly occupied by him. He looks shyly about to see if any of his friends have seen the move. The girl makes a futile attempt at an indifferent attitude as she stares blankly at the same page for five minutes. Soon they arise and leave, one following the other until they reach the privacy of the lower floor.

INDEX

A sickly looking stooped-shouldered fellow with a long nose and horn rimmed spectacles pores over the dusty volumes on a remote shelf, seemingly unaware of the presence of anyone. An occasional giggle or a spirited conversation is curtailed by the head cop of the force. A boisterous young squirt is occasionally escorted to the exterior with no apologies. A group of boys at the bottom of the stairs, awaiting companions or prospective companions from above, becomes noisy and is dispersed by the night watchman.

As the closing time approaches, the place gradually empties—by twos, threes, and fours—seldom ones. Our evening visitor makes his departure in silence, dubiously shaking his head as he descends the stairs and goes out into the night.

The Girls' Dormitory

Harris Dean

Ordinarily when we speak of a girls' dormitory we are thinking of a house full of girls with a matron to care for them and all the other things that go with such an organization. We think of girls mingling with girls and of a girls' paradise free from the threat of sinful invasion by men.

But let us examine this so-called girls' dormitory more closely. Let us stroll down to the dormitory some Saturday evening and see if we are right in our thinking. We enter this realm of some queenly matron expecting to see a group of laughing girls before us. We are, thus far, disappointed. We are met at the door, not by a girl but by a young man, who, impatient because his girl friend does not answer the phone, thinks that perhaps it is she just returning from the Station Store. We see in the office a few more boys and one lone girl who we suppose is the office girl. One of the boys is telephoning upstairs to his lady friend, another is sitting in a comfortable chair reading the evening newspaper with the important air of a millionaire at home, and still another is trying out the office typewriter while waiting for his Juliet to descend from her third floor balcony. The office girl, who has by this time become acquainted with the ups and downs of her job, continues to try to study.

Out in the main hall a boy is standing before the clock observing the workings of the mechanism and counting the minutes impatiently. A more reticent lad is slouched in a chair a few feet away, scowling as if he were a highwayman waiting for his prey. A charming Romeo with his hair plastered down greets his maiden fair with a frown and gesticulates wildly at the clock, showing plainly that he has grown impatient with waiting.

In the reception room two boys, who evidently know with what degree of capability for hurrying their girls are endowed, have started a card game to while away the time which they know must be spent somehow. One lad is standing before the long mirror admiring the reflection therein and wondering how in the world the girls manage to resist him as well as they do.

In the drawing room we see every davenport occupied by young couples. A long davenport in front of the fireplace is occupied by two couples, one of which is composed of a rotund lad and a buxom lassie, who occupy at least two-thirds of the davenport and who have squeezed the couple next to them so hard that they no longer suffer. A young man with an attitude so defiant as to cause Jesse James to look to his laurels is in the act of removing a candle from the candelabra on the table in an attempt to convince his lady love that he is as fearless as his nearest rival, who is captain of the football team. Another young man is making love to a fair co-ed and is almost to the point of getting on his knees when the matron walks in and turns on the ceiling lights, causing a general commotion in the room. A general discussion of classroom subjects arises and the young man finds that his speech, which he has worked to a wonderful climax, has been given in vain.

Frequently a young couple arises and strolls back to the drinking fountain supposedly to quench their thirst. We know not what transpires there but evidently something which is said or done (or perhaps it is that wonderful city water!), has a marvelous effect on the couple for they return with eyes sparkling and faces beaming with satisfaction.

Quiet hour is up and a young man entreats his lady to come to the piano and play the beautiful strains of the "Gypsy Love Song" or some other lyric which voices his sentiments. He finds that his beautiful love waltz turns out to be "Sundown", the only piece she can play. Fearing lest he show himself unappreciative he insists upon her playing it over and over until someone disgustedly demands that the terrible racket be stopped. Completely humiliated the two of them slink back to the davenport.

The clock strikes the quarter after eleven and the couples start moving toward the back stairway. Cars begin rushing up to the door and girls pour into the hall half-delirious in their fear that they are late. The hour strikes and the boys reluctantly leave, gathering at the outside to serenade their loves who hang their heads out of the windows and marvel at the beauty of the terrible singing. We start for home wondering just why the girls' dormitory bears that name.

One Modern Eve

Jane Church

"Well, saay! if you think for one second I'm going to stay home and study that Lit Method, you're fooled. Pass the celery. It isn't everyday I get to go to a Phi Gamm party," said Eve.

"Yes, but what are you going to do at the end of the fourth week? And you have to read those books, Eve," replied serious-minded Mary.

"I should worry about the end of the fourth week. My good luck will carry me through. This salad is good, isn't it? Why, before I took Science of Discourse, I collected themes for three terms ahead, and one time I wrote the 'Life of a Minister's Daughter', meaning myself, and got by."

"Yes, but Eve, this is different. If you skim by that way all the time, what will you do when you leave this institution?" asked Ruth.

"I don't intend to teach more than two years, and no one expects much of a teacher the first two years. What do I get if I do teach conscientiously? Only wrinkles and crow's feet and horn rimmed spectacles. I don't intend to hide my windows of the soul behind a windshield. I'd just end up by being an old maid. St. Paul says, 'It isn't well for man to live alone.' That applies to woman, too," said Eve.

"You can get a pension, Eve, if you teach for twenty-five years," laughingly suggested Helen.

"Yes, the munificent sum of four hundred dollars a year! A lotta money, that!"

"But how can you enjoy yourself at a party if you know you're not prepared on the next day's work?" asked Mary.

"How can I enjoy myself? Say, I'd like some of that jelly. I always eat jelly with my meat. Why, when that music starts, there's nothing on my mind but getting every dance. Helen, may I wear that blue necklace of yours? Steve likes me in blue. Who has that list of trees on the campus for Nature Study? I'd like mighty well to borrow it. Whoever lets me have it can wear my fur coat to the Majestic. Big hearted Otis!"

"You can have my list, Eve, but get this straight. It is the last time you can borrow from me," said Edna.

"Thanks a lot, Edna. Well, to please you girls, I'll study tomorrow night if I don't have a date. Page Andrew Carnegie! When I went to school at Ferry Hall, I never cracked a book."

INDEX

"Is that why you quit?" innocently asked Ruth.

"Don't get catty, Ruth. I was fashioned for a sunnier clime than this. Well, excuse me, please. I'm not eating any pie. I'm getting too fat and Steve doesn't like fat girls. Toodle oo."

And off she glided, powdering her nose and rouging her cheeks as she went and humming, "You're a Real Sweetheart."

And—at the end of the fourth week when the list of names went to the dean, lo! like that of Abou Ben Adam, her name led all the rest.

The Landlady's Night Out

Mary Mcadows Bell

The tree limbs were covered with a heavy coat of ice. They were not only hanging in broken pieces from the trees, but they were scattered in every direction on the ground. The earth was wrapped in a white blanket of snow. It was an ideal night to make fudge, or pop corn; to put studies aside, and have some real fun.

And, that night we were ready for the fun. The landlady was going to a play. The house was ours! The door no sooner closed behind the landlady and the sound of her footsteps had no sooner died away than we began our plans for the evening. Gladys and Lyola were to make the fudge. Harriet and Hazel were to pop the corn. I was to help with any odd jobs. "When the cat's away the mice will play" is a familiar saying. And we did play! Down those stairs we came at about three steps at a time. The activities of the evening began. We found the popcorn, but no sugar. In the meantime the popcorn had popped out on the stove, on the floor, and everywhere except into the pan where it should be. Just as Lyola started to put the pan of sugar for the fudge on the stove we heard the door bell. We were petrified with fright.

We had to think quickly. We were certain that it was the landlady. We might be reported to the dean! Gladys mustered courage and went to the door. She opened it. She gave an inward sigh of relief when she saw only the landlady's daughter, Mildred. Mildred ran upstairs, picked up her purse that she had forgotten, and was on her way again.

The popcorn was done and the candy was ready to eat. We were enjoying our feast when we suddenly heard beautiful notes of song outside. Our boy friends were serenading us. We invited them to come into the house. We ate all the popcorn and fudge in a few minutes.

What should we do next? Harriet suggested a mock wedding. In the twinkling of an eye we had transformed the living room into our conception of a cathedral on a wedding night. Harriet took her place at the piano. The ceremony was begun. The bridal procession slowly and solemnly marched towards the altar of rugs and cushions. Gordon sang so impressively that it would have stirred the dead. The bride was charming in her gown of yellow and red calico. Her veil was a lace curtain. Hazel was the bride. Gladys was the groom, and Arthur, the minister. The ceremony ended. The bridal couple took their places to receive congratulations. Tinkle, tinkle, sounded the door bell. While Lyola slowly went to the door we put the furniture back in place. The landlady told us we must send the boys home. It was late, she added, and we must go to bed.

Obediently we sent the boys home. We went upstairs, but not to bed. The evening was "yet young". The landlady slept downstairs. She could not hear well. She seldom came upstairs. Therefore, we felt reasonably safe. Hazel brought in tea. Harriet and Lyola brought cookies, and we had another feast.

We were tired, very tired. No sooner had the girls left the door of Gladys' and my room than a loud scream came from Hazel's room. Two of the girls had put a small bucket full of water up over her door. As she opened the door she was nearly drowned with a deluge of cold water. A loud rap came from downstairs. It was a signal from the landlady for us to be quiet. We hastened to our beds. Silence reigned.

Many nights, even years have passed, but never have I had, in one evening, so much fun as I had that night. We laughed so much we cried. We ate so much we were ill the next day. No happier memories of college life could come to me than those memories of the time when the tree limbs were covered with ice and the earth was wrapped in a white blanket of snow that eventful night in December—the landlady's night out.

An Exciting Moment

Elizabeth Terrell

It was a drizzly rain, which spluttered against our windshield and made a misty light without when a car sped by. Jack and I were talking about how late we were going to get home and all the time he was increasing our speed to a dangerous point. It was pitch dark. We could see little except the misty drizzle before us, and the slippery concrete felt insecure indeed.

"There is a car coming, Jack," I said. "Slow down a bit." We could see a faint light in the distance. Jack did as I said. The light, however, did not approach us—we approached it. We were almost on top of it. "Look, Jack! A car stretched across the road. A man at each end. You know what that means!" My first thought was that of hold-up men and the terrible stories I had heard about them.

"Jack! Don't you dare stop!" We got closer and closer. A high bank was on each side. I felt my heart thump and buried my head. We would crash, for Jack would not stop. I looked up. I could see the men plainly now with their lanterns held high and their drizzly coats. I grabbed the wheel, turned it to the left with all my force, skidded half way, climbed the steep bank with a footing of a few stones, and kept going over cornstalks and all sorts of elevated ground. Jack raved and tried to take the wheel away from me. I had it and held it, and presently found myself skidding downward and at last we were on the road again.

It was enough. Jack was obliged to take the wheel. I was a heap of nerves. "Drive with all your might," I said. "They are following us. They are angry because we escaped them." I heard them coming; saw the light reflect on our windshield. We rode like the wind for fifteen minutes; finally we were in town again.

How I welcomed it. "Did you see that gun that big fellow had, Jack?" I remembered it distinctly.

"Yes!" said Jack, who was more frightened than I, but he would not admit it.

The next morning I searched the papers to see who had been robbed, murdered or kidnapped. But instead, I found an article which read something like this:

"Government officials stopped all cars on Route 2 outside of Cairo last night in search of a car which was loaded with liquor. The car was not found however, unless it happened to be one Ford sedan whose driver braved the high bank (running the risk of turning over) in order to escape the hands of the officers."

"All my fear for nothing," I gasped.

Visualization

Henry H. Smith

" . . . In other words . . ." the professor reached for his favorite book, ". . . here is the Rock of Gibraltar!" He slammed the book on the desk. A hunk of aged plaster, shaken loose by the jar, hurled itself down on the desk. Seven students seated near the wall glanced apprehensively at an old map suspended from the molding above them. The professor looked at the plaster. "That is the Taconic revolution pushing up the Rock of Gibraltar," he explained. Four students in the front row bent over their notebooks in confusion, for they knew very well the falling plaster was no such thing. The professor reached for his chalk box.

"And here," he proceeded, placing the chalk box on top of the book, "are the British fortifications on Gibraltar . . . cannon are being fired across the Mediterranean Sea toward Africa . . ." He waved his hand toward a huge volume of Illinois House Bills for the year 1922. As he waved his hand, several bits of chalk obediently fell out of the chalk box.

"Cannon balls!" shouted a precocious youngster in the back row. He had never learned to contain himself.

"Then came a terrific tropical downpour . . ." ignoring his prompter in the back row, the professor continued. He grasped another book and held it over Gibraltar and its fortifications. Three students who had been in his classes before, dozed off at this point.

Noticing this, the professor put his 'tropical downpour' back on the desk.

"Let me put it this way . . ." he seized the huge volume of House Bills for 1922 and hurled it across the room where it fell to the floor with a crash. The three dozing students sat up quickly.

"Boy, that's real tropical thunder!" mumbled one of them.

"There is Africa . . ." began the professor.

“Ferdy”

Lewis Winegarner

“Where’re you dating tonight, Peanuts?”

“Over on School Street, First house north of Snuggle Inn. How ’bout yourself, Bill?”

“Huh! Same place.”

“How come? I thought there was only one girl staying at that house.”

“So did I; looks as if there must be two, though, or one of us is out of luck for the evening.”

“Hello, Stan, who’re you dating tonight?”

“New one tonight; just wait till you see me strut in with her at the ‘prom’ this evening. You’ll wonder where she’s been all your life.”

“Yeah, I’d like to see the one who’d date you. She must be some lalla-palloosa.”

“Well, Ferdy, who is the fair damsel with you for this evening?” There was a general laugh at the expense of Ferdy, who blushed and turned away.

Now there was nothing unusual about this conversation; it was only one of the conversations that take place every Saturday evening in every house where more than one boy stays, but there was something queer about the way Ferdy turned away on this particular evening, for Ferdy was the house stay-at-home, and usually blushed furiously at any joke that was aimed at him. The other fellows went about their varying and more or less elaborate toilets, never thinking that on this very evening the humble Ferdy was to become great in the eyes of his housemates.

Promptly at seven-forty-five Stan rang the doorbell of the first house north of Snuggle Inn. “No, she isn’t ready yet. Won’t you come in?” At exactly seven forty-seven another step was heard on the porch outside, and the same voice was heard saying, “No, she isn’t ready yet. Won’t you sit down.” In walked Peanuts. “What! You here for the evening, too?”

INDEX

Again and again the doorbell rang; each time the same pleasant voice answered, "No, she isn't ready yet. Won't you come in?" and each time another representative of the House of Daniel walked in. The amazement on their faces was indeed wonderful to see as they each cautiously would look at the other and then at indefinite points of interest about the utterly uninteresting walls of the room. There was a something in the air that made them feel ill at ease. The situation was becoming tense. A unity of thought seemed to be prevailing in the minds of the seven young would-be gallants, the trend of which may better be imagined than put in print.

The seven presented a motley array, seated in varying degrees of discomfort about the room, each wondering what the deuce the others were doing there, and waiting almost breathlessly for the moment to come when he would walk out with his new girl, leaving his envying housemates gaping in amazement at her beauty. Here was Peanuts of the red suspenders and the campus hat; soulful Little Willie; Jack, the big butter-and-egg man of broad shoulders and football fame; Leslie, the sedate student of "high-brow" literature, unconsciously standing aloof from the rest; Billy, the champeen cow-caller of the latest campus contest who had brought both fame and honor to his house with his gently persuasive voice; and last but not the least to be reckoned with, "Jinx", one of those tragedies of life who have the uncanny ability of being able to always say exactly the correct thing at precisely the wrong time.

Just as the old tower clock struck eight there was a light, quick step upon the stairs, and each of the seven heads turned to get a first glimpse of his new flame. Almost as if in echo to that light, quick step, a heavy but uncertain step was heard on the steps of the porch outside. With a merry, carefree "Sorry to leave you so soon, boys, but you see, Ferdy is here," she was gone. Speechless, they watched the door close behind the airy object of their wooing, and saw her fade away into the night. With one voice the inevitable came,— "Ferdy!" Then someone suggested in a comradely way, "What do you say that we all stag it to the dance?" And down the street they went, singing at the tops of their lusty voices, "Happy Days, Lonely Nights".

Dreaming of Vacation

Rupert Vaughan

Have you ever heard the rustle of the corn
In the morn?
Emerald sea of glistening green
Lit by sunlight's golden sheen
Whispering wonders seldom seen,—
Field of corn
In the morn!

Steely cool it lisps and murmurs
Like a maid who talks in slumbers.
Now it tells in soothing numbers
Tales of corn
In the morn.

Mulchy middles clean and even,
Arched with blades,—a forest haven
For the ants astir at seven
In the corn
Every morn.

Dripping dewdrops fall from tender
Leaves so crisp and sleek and slender,—
Blades waist high in sturdy splendor,
Swords of corn
In the morn.

As I sit in school here dreaming
Golden sunlight, brightly beaming,
Sets the lights of jewels gleaming
On the corn
In the morn.

So once more I soon shall wander
To that home so dear back yonder
Where some happy hours I'll squander
Listening to the music
Of the corn.
Have you ever felt the beauty of the corn
In the morn?

As June Comes

Senior Class History

In the fall of 1925, 481 freshmen were enrolled at I.S.N.U. Many events of the years 1925-6 have helped to hold this year in the memories of those freshmen. The outstanding event which marks this year in the minds of all I.S.N.U. students was the dedication of the Felmley Gym at Homecoming time. The freshmen at Homecoming participated in the Hobo Parade, the first freshman class for several years to do this. Many events and associations helped to start this class on its march to education. The president of the class was Clarence Odell, and President Felmley, the sponsor.

This same class, in 1926-27, losing a few of its members, became sophomores. The class enrollment still claimed one-third of the student body and was larger than any sophomore class in years. Maurice Graff very ably directed the class from his chair as president. During this year the class assumed its responsibilities in every extra-curricular activity, producing athletes, debaters, public speakers, actors, etc. There was a party given in the old Castle during the Fall term and a student council, Gen. Ex. program during the spring term. The class appreciated the sincere help of its sponsor, Mr. Decker, in all its activities.

The real event in the lives of most of the sophomores was graduation in June, for a great number secured their diplomas and left I.S.N.U. to teach.

Two hundred twenty-two

INDEX

Those of the Sophomore class who remained at Normal and others who returned to secure degrees, made up the Junior class of 1927-28. This class was very much smaller than in the two preceding years. Mark Mooney was early chosen as president and proved a very able leader. As in previous years the class showed its ability in every respect. Among its members was one who received first prize in the National Essay Contest; one who was Index Editor and one, a contestant in the Edwards Medal contest; there were also actors, athletes and public speakers. In May, with the freshmen, the juniors cooperated in putting on a successful presentation of "The Whiteheaded Boy".

The year 1928 and '29, with most of the seniors has been a dilemma of theses and teaching experiences, which culminate in a black cap and gown on June 9. Walker Wyman engineered this austere body through all its difficulties. And Mr. Beyer was always present to give helpful suggestions. The class instigated a new event on the campus on May 31. The school has never had a Junior-Senior Prom. This year's was a successful one, and it is the wish of the seniors that this may, hereafter, be a regular event of commencement week.

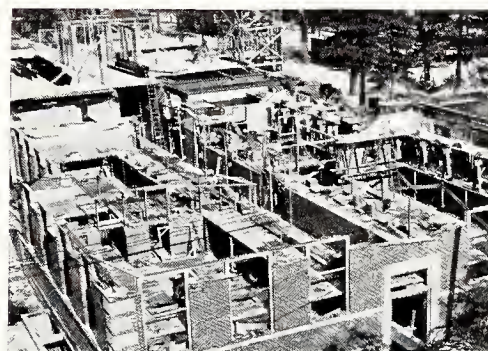

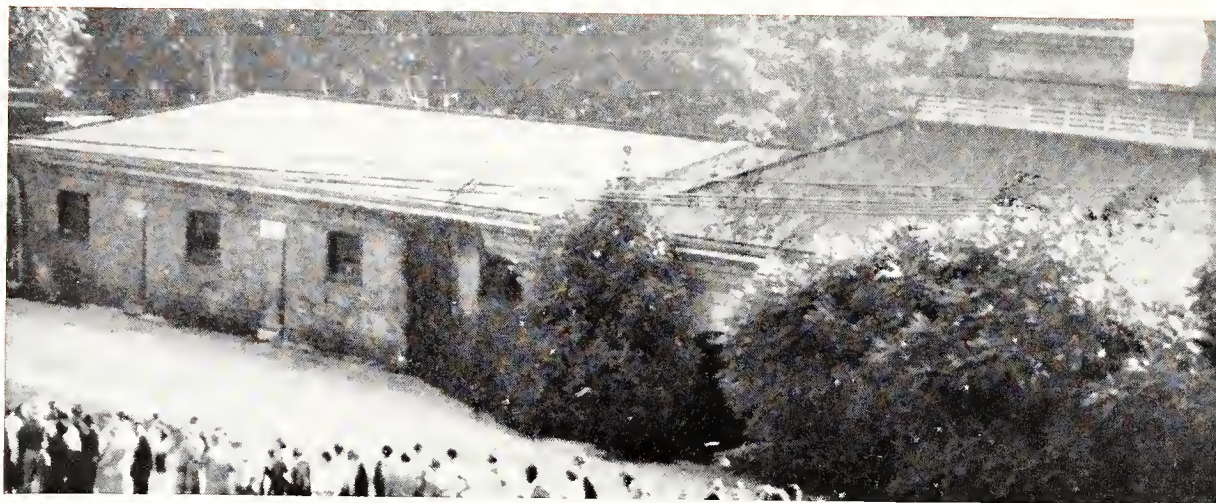

This class, in its last year, has indeed led the school in its production of scholastic and extra curricular activities and abilities. It has cooperated, for the benefit of the school, in its decisions on problems of school interest and has proved to be a credit to its Alma Mater.

During the year the "N" Club sponsored all pep meetings, took charge of the Homecoming football game, sent a large delegation of rooters to Eureka in basketball, sold a block of reserved seats at the Wesleyan game in the Memorial Gymnasium, sponsored the annual Teachers College Track and Field Meet and led athletics to higher and nobler things throughout the year.

The outstanding achievement of the year was the enlisting of $500 from the student body by voluntary subscription for the purpose of financing spring athletics. The "N" Club wishes to thank every contributor to this noble cause of better athletics for Normal.

Football

Football

This year when Coach Cogdal issued the call for football, a group of fifty-five athletic huskies answered the call. For backfield Dick Tate, our colored flash, was back, along with Pinkstaff, Kingery, and Dutch Seybert to help pave the way. For linemen we had a host of material such as Ruebush, Allen, Brasmer, Bryan, Dean, Hill, LeFever, Sapp, and Traugher. With such a group our prospects looked great.

After the season got off with a good start by beating DeKalb and Lincoln, the I.S.N.U. redbirds bit into a slump for a stretch, but managed to pull themselves back into shape for the rest of the season. In all, however, we can call it a fairly successful year since we took on a tough schedule and barred weak sisters.

THE GAMES

DeKALB—OCTOBER 6

The Normal rolling stones gathered the first moss of the season when they tromped on the strong DeKalb huskies from "Up North". Dean, Tate, Kingery, and Pinkstaff all stood out in Normal's 10-0 verdict over our sister school. Tate reeled off several 30 and 40 yard runs along with Pinkstaff crashing the line. Good work, boys.

LINCOLN—OCTOBER 12

Normal came through in great style, taking the second victory in as many starts from Lincoln, by a score of 33-0. Normal clearly showed its ability in this game and evidence pointed toward more victories.

ST. VIATOR—OCTOBER 20—HOMECOMING

Normal bowed to the powerful Viator eleven in a crushing 30-6 defeat before a crowd of 3000 homecomers. Viator had an experienced crew which just was too much. The homecomers failed to get the thrill of winning, but next—well, I won't say it. Anyway there was a good airplane exhibition during halves.

EUREKA—OCTOBER 26

Normal lost the third straight game of the season when they went down before the Eureka Red Devils. Normal outplayed, outguessed, and out everythinged, but outscored Eureka. We should have won, but as points count and not alibis the score read 3-0 in Eureka's favor.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE—NOVEMBER 3

Passes ruined Normal's chances again, for after sixty minutes of struggle the score stood 12-0. Normal again outplayed her rivals but lacked the necessary punch to put the ball over for counters.

CHARLESTON—NOVEMBER 10

In the sixth game of the season Normal suffered the verdict of a 19-0 defeat. You can't blame the boys after a four hour ride and a thirty-minute rest before the game. Penalties slowed up the game, being 19 in all.

MACOMB—NOVEMBER 17

Normal found Ernie Page and Co. too tough and came out with the successive 19-0 defeat. Two passes and a blocked punt netted the victory for Macomb.

WESLEYAN—TURKEY DAY

In a renewal of the 41 year old feud, Normal dropped the last game of the season 25-2. It was a much better game than the score would indicate and Normal gave the boys from the Music school a whole lot to handle. After this game we all got out and put the lid on the gridiron.

Basketball

Basketball

On the hardwood court Normal enjoyed one of the most successful seasons that she has had for some years. The "Redbirds" annexed 13 games out of 21 starts and many by decisive margins.

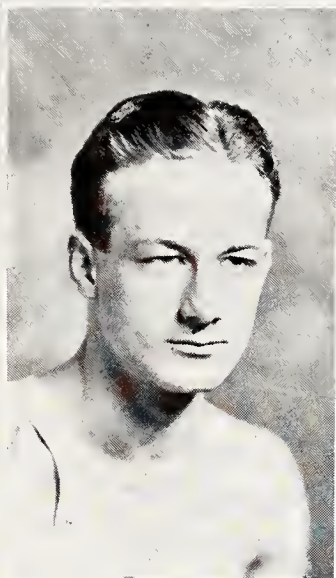

Normal opened the season with three straight victories and closed the season with three straight victories. I.S.N.U. also took the Normal School Tournament trophy in the second annual tournament of the five normal schools held this year at Macomb.

Normal's team of Rowe, Zook, Moore, Needles, Dean, Miner, and Kingery was one of the best in the conference. "Ikey" Zook with his cleverness and Moore with his consistent ability helped "Old Normal" keep on the upper side of 500%.

This year the students and the faculty backed the team with undying pep and they are to be congratulated. When next year rolls around we hope the school spirit will be just as good and everybody will be out to back Old Normal for another successful season.

Track

Track

Coach Cogdal's track team was centered around the veterans, Carlock, Snyder, White, Glaeser, Montgomery, Steelsmith, Graack, Valentine, Lippincott, Morgan, and Captain Eugene Hill this year. At the start of the season unfavorable weather kept the thinly-clads indoors until almost time for the first meet at Bradley. With this poor start Old Normal got down to real work as soon as Sol peeped from behind the clouds. Up to date they have had two close losses and one win. With the track in good shape and the men wending into mid-season form the chances for winning are very good.

NORMAL SCHOOL TRACK MEET

Carbondale took the second annual Teachers College track meet by a margin of  $20\frac{1}{2}$  points. They scored 64 points to I.S.N.U.  $43\frac{1}{2}$ . Ten new records were set.

Ray of Carbondale leaped 22 feet  $9\frac{1}{2}$  inches, Bricher of Carbondale heaved the disk 124 feet 1 inch, Lucie of Western threw the javelin 175 feet 5 inches, while Lippincott of Normal stepped the two-mile run in 10:44.5 to cut off 14 seconds from the record. Not content with these records, Grigsby of Macomb soared 11 feet 6 inches in the pole vault, Connett of Charleston tossed the shot 42 feet 6 inches, and Captain Hill of Normal stepped the 880 in 2:04. He was barely nosed out in the mile when Garrison of Western made a record of 4:32.2. A new relay mark was established by Carbondale, running it in 3:37.

Baseball

When the season of poets and baseball aspirants rolled around Coach C.E. Horton issued a call for candidates. Over forty men responded. From last year's squad there were the following letter men back: Graff, White, Aiello, Ryan, Rowe, Keys, and Reynolds. With such a group as this to pick a team from along with new prospects the outlook was very bright. Some of the new candidates were Shiner and Fonger for pitchers.

When the schedule was made out last year, no school that would not have a tough team was taken into consideration. Our opponents were some of the strongest in the Little Nineteen.

NORMAL 9, WESLEYAN 8

Probably the best game that the Redbirds turned in so far this year was their annual struggle with Wesleyan. The final score was 9-8 in favor of Old Normal.

Wesleyan opened the scoring in the second inning by getting one run. Normal tied the score in the third inning with one tally. In the fifth inning, Wesleyan added two more and a fourth in the sixth inning. The Redbirds rallied and pushed over four counters in the sixth inning and three more in the seventh. With the game apparently on ice for Normal, Wesleyan rose to the occasion and tied the score. Two extra innings were required to settle the outcome. Rowe raced home on Ryan's single with two down, to win the game, 9-8. Fonger pitched and whiffed fifteen men.

Sectional Tennis Tourney

Old Normal's tennis aces, Reed Needles and Paul Kambly, dominated the sectional tennis tourney held on the James Millikin University courts, Friday and Saturday, May 10 and 11. Between them they brought home two first places, when Needles took one of the two first place singles matches and paired with Kambly copped off the doubles championship.

This allows both Needles and Kambly to make the trip to Galesburg, May 24-25, to compete for the state championship. Since there were two divisions, the Central Illinois district will be represented by Needles of Normal and Charley Driver of Wesleyan in the singles, and Needles-Kambly of Normal and Dunning-Wood of Millikin in the doubles.

In addition to the tourney, the tennis squad, composed of Captain Paul Kambly, Reed Needles, Frank Drendel, and Harry Coursey, played four out of the six scheduled matches, winning three while losing one.

Boxing and Wrestling

The Physical Education Department has continued its policy of giving a wide variety of choice in its gym classes. Boxing and wrestling were again offered this winter term as a substitute for regular gym work or as an elective course.

Wm. La Mance, State Y. M. C. A. champion in the light-heavyweight division, conducted the boxing class. Forrest Cockrell, welterweight member of the Bloomington Y. M. C. A. wrestling team, taught the art of wrestling.

These sports were offered in order to give I. S. N. U. men an opportunity to learn the art of self defense. The development of speed, skill, endurance, and sportsmanship were stressed. The success of these classes are attested by the number taking part in them, by the interested spectators, and by the success of the tournament given at the close of the term.

The boxing class included Needles, Moore, Knepper, Collins, Leonard, Bolin, Houtzel, Webb, Shiner, Fisk, Rodgers, Kennedy, Schlosser, Drum, Freehill, Striegel, and Scott.

The members of the wrestling class were Webb, Leonard, Collins, Moberly, Brady, Fisk, Striegel, Kokensparger, Morgan, and Kearney.

Tournament

The men taking part in the boxing and wrestling classes were given an opportunity to show their skill in a tournament Wednesday evening, March 13. The tournament was managed by Mr. Horton, Mr. Cockrell, and Mr. LaMance. The officials were secured from the Bloomington Y. M. C. A.

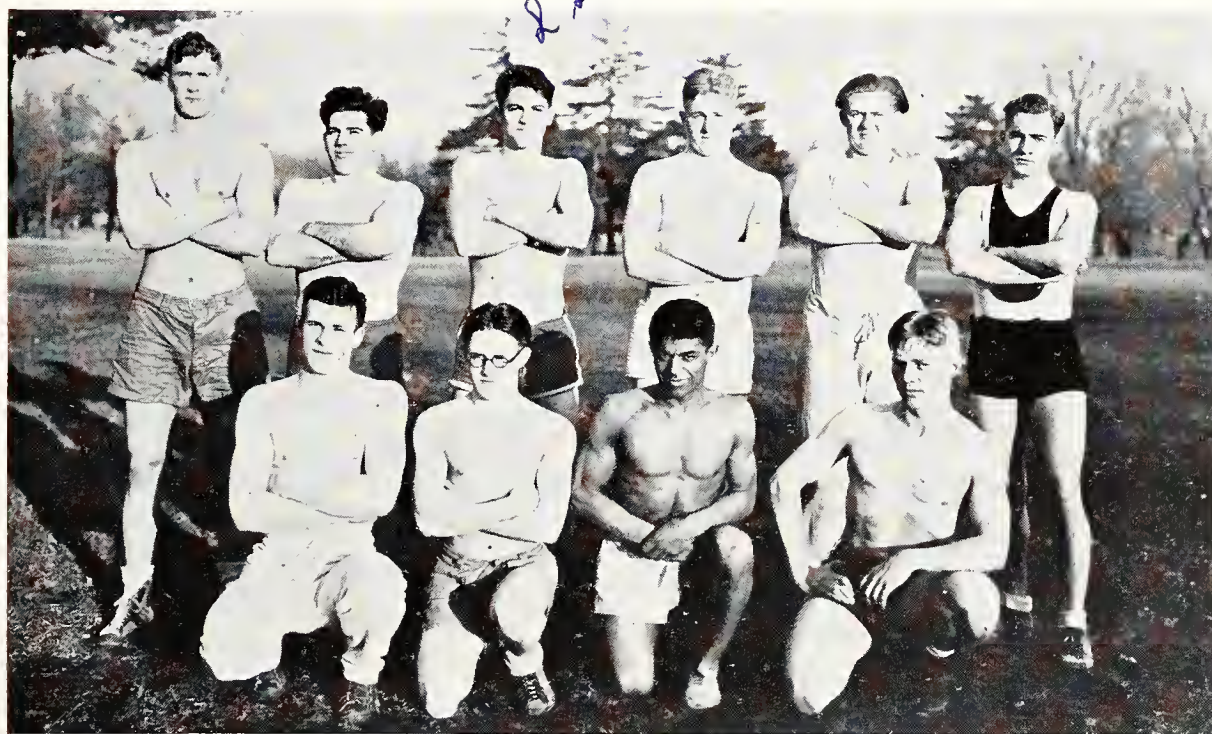

Results were as follows:

BOXING (THREE ROUNDS)

Intramural Basketball

The Walton-Carol basketball team carried off first honors in the Intramural Basketball League. They won eleven of their twelve games, being defeated by Roy Moore's GE1 outfit in a close game; thereby finishing at the top of the league standings with the high percentage of .917, 84 points ahead of their closest rivals, the K clubs, who finished in second place with the percentage of .833.

W. A. A.

In looking back over the past year it seems to be a year especially marked by the growth of the Association. We are still working without a point system. This is the second year the plan has been tried, and, although of course it is far from perfect, we do feel that we have taken a step forward. The large "N's" were presented to six of the girls, chosen from the three upper classes. The question of presenting letters was discussed very much this year and it was finally decided to allow the "N" women in school to assist the Faculty Board. As the Index goes to press W. A. A. is eagerly waiting for the Camp Lantz week-end. For at this annual outing the Bronze Tablet, W. A. A.'s highest award, is given. The tablet now is engraved with the names of Mable L. Sage and Esther L. French.

The members of W. A. A. were glad to welcome Orchesis as an activity of the Association. Under the leadership of Aileen Browning, Miss Singer and Miss Clancy the club has grown and developed.

W. A. A. is a member of the A. C. O. C. W. and has regularly sent delegates to the meetings. W. A. A. also belongs to the United States Field Hockey Association and the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

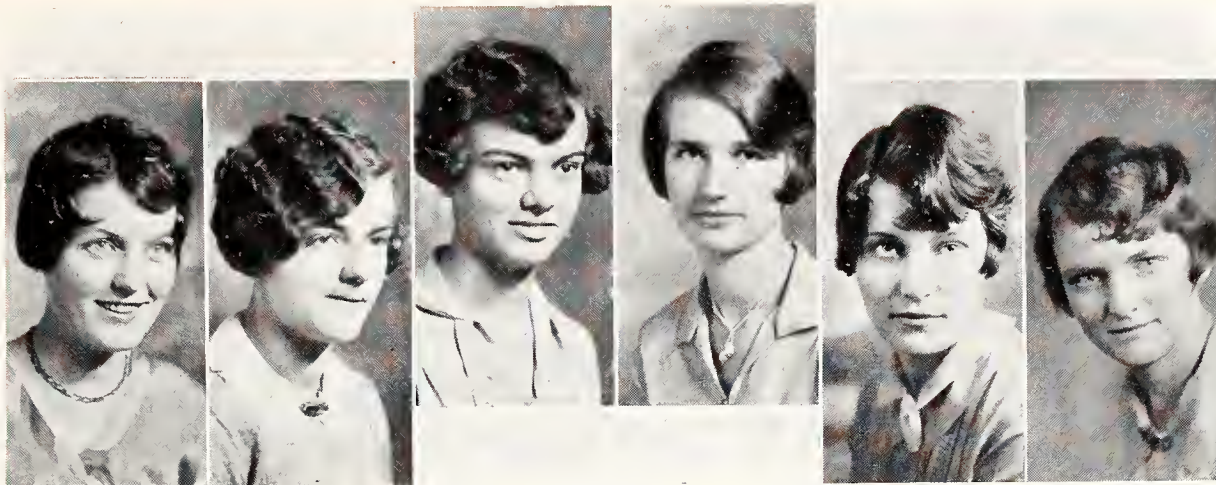

The W. A. A. season was started in September with the annual Hare and Hound Chase. At this event the Freshmen girls and the P. E. Faculty were the guests. After the wiener roast the girls gathered around the fire, met the new instructors and learned the W. A. A. songs.

The Alumnae came back with a strong team, determined to win the Homecoming hockey game. Either by luck or skill, the Varsity was able to bring in a 1-0 victory. By evening the game was forgotten and we all gathered at the Maplewood Country Club for the banquet.

W. A. A. entertained the girls of the school with a Boy and Girl Party in the Felmley Gymnasium. Dressed in rompers and overalls we danced and played the games which had long been neglected by college students. W. A. A. was pleased to have several members of the P. E. Faculty of U. of I. as guests at the party.

The winter term, as usual, was a busy one. Initiations, banquets, letters, basketball, bowling, swimming and dancing all helped make the winter months pass rapidly. The basketball classes were conducted under a new system. Each Sophomore P. E. major coached a team. This not only gave the Majors coaching training but aroused interest in basketball and developed better teams. Ruth Parrish's team won the tournament. A class tournament was played during the last three weeks. At the All-Sports Banquet, Aileen Browning, Olive Barlow, Beatrice Baird, Ruth Parrish, Mildred Carroll and Evelyn Rasmussen were given "N's". The banquet was featured by a debate on the superiority of the Irish and Danes. Miss Mosbaek proved herself a debater of skill and originality.

The spring term is now commencing with the same earnest spirit which has characterized the whole year. The outing at Camp Lantz is the feature event of the term.

W. A. A. has appreciated the assistance which it has received from Miss Field, Miss Mosbaek, Miss Clancy, Miss Singer and Miss Barto in making this year successful.

Did put my rubber boots away and up to college for registration day was at hand. The line in front of the Executioners' Building did have the appearance of being as long as it was green. Gently tipping my hat as I majestically trod along I heard many exclamations of joy and anticipation. Busted the line at the door. And so about my registration.

P. S.—Train leaves at 3:00. My lad, she's over for me. Lots of things I'd not do. Lots of things I'd do differently. But boy, it's the last of opportunity. It's too late. Take your professors with a grain of salt unless their ideas command your respect. Respect the administration if it respects you and your individuality. Don't make a new world in a day or in your first year. Wait awhile. Read a little to keep out of the rut. Something to stimulate you, to spice your remarks. Smoke and lose sleep—as much as you can stand if you care to at all, but don't lose yourself and your objective.

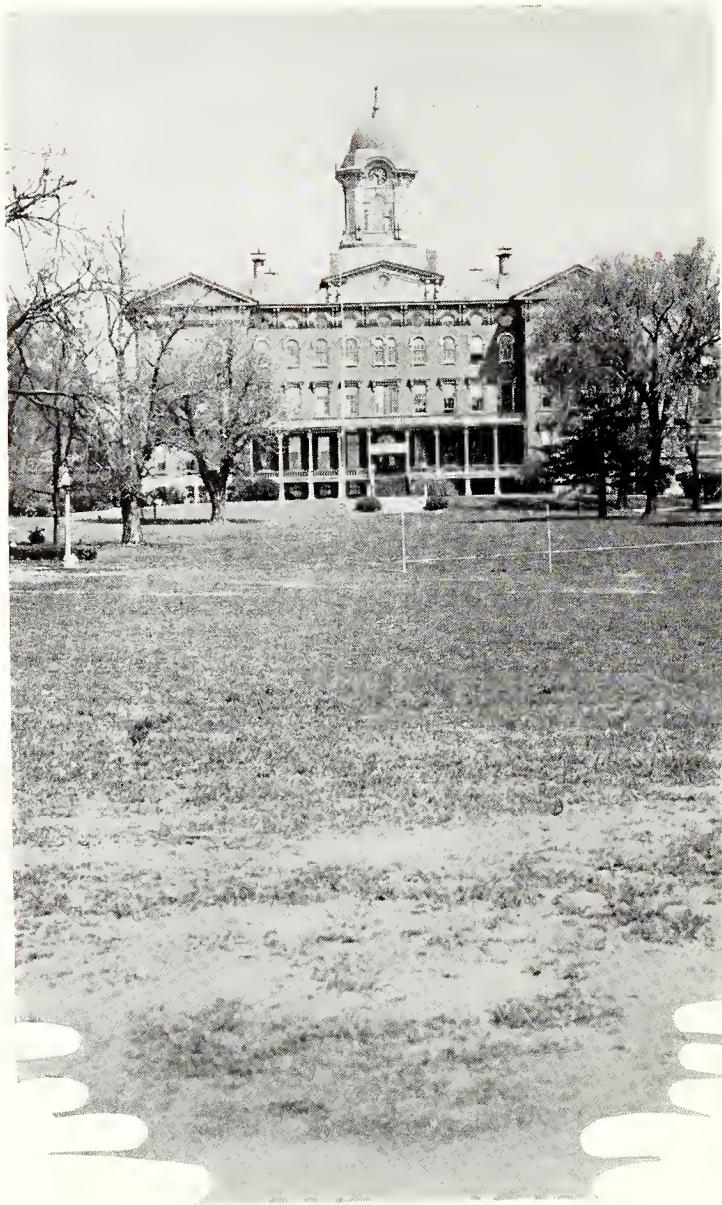

I've learned these things, not in a classroom, but with my briar. On with the party. On with the train. Away to educate America's young. Away from here at 3:00: or they'll be shootin' Walker Wyman in the morning.
